DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Old Harmony Church faces south on the northeast corner of Madison Street and Old North Alley. It is a three bay wide, three bay deep, two story high, gabled roof (running north-south) German siding frame building with central, rectangular, double paneled south entrance door, surmounted by a five light transom and flanked by rectangular, double-hung windows, holding twelve-over-twelve lights. Similar six-over-six light, second floor windows are vertically aligned to those below, all of which are decorated by projecting wooden sills. The central entrance is covered by a gabled roof portico, supported by two round columns.

Two similar first floor windows rest in the north wall with a tall boarded up window or door rising to the second floor placed between them.

Three similar first floor windows rest in the east and west walls of this well proportioned building.

The interior of the building is completely gutted, revealing the stone foundation around its perimeter as well as the additional central stone wall foundation (running north-south).

The interior wood work around the windows consists of flat pilasters surmounted by flat lintels. Other than this, the exterior frame of the building is totally exposed, revealing the studs placed at intervals along each wall and the roof trusses.

The whole building is in the process of being restored by Mr. and Mrs. Peter McIntosh for use as a private residence.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Harmony Church is significant historically and architecturally and in the religious life of Howard County and the State Of Maryland.

Historically, it is said to date from 1836 and was constructed to house the Presbyterian congregation in Lisbon, initiated through the efforts of Dr. Gustavus Warfield and family of Longwood. Church records were destroyed by fire in 1911. It is known, however, that the Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shepherd of Virginia, who authored a number of standard church works within the Presbyterian Church, married Emma Warfield, daughter of Dr. Warfield.

The Reverend William L. Milne was one of the last pastors to serve Harmony Church. According to Mrs. Celia Holland in her article on Lisbon in The Times - Ellicott City, Md., June 14, 1973, he was known as "a fascinating and warm Scotsman who spent 18 years ministering to his Lisbon congregation (1920-38)." He was born in Scotland in 1868 and was a graduate of Kings College, Aberdeen, according to Mrs. Holland, who related that he had completed his clerical training at Union Theological Seminary, Hampden - Sydney, Virginia.

Architecturally the building is a rather unadorned, frame German siding building, whose south double paneled, rectangular entrance is covered by a gabled roof portico and surmounted by a five light transom. Free of stylistic detail, "old Harmony's" stark architecture is representative of Howard County's early vernacular church architecture. It serves to remind us of the early days of Howard County when Lisbon and its neighboring farm families congregated here for worship.

Historically and architecturally noteworthy, Harmony Church and the surrounding Lisbon Historic District should be nominated to the National Register of Historical Places and the State Critical Areas Program.
