Old Guilford School Building/Harry's Lot
Guilford
Private

This old school building faces south on the northwest corner of Oakland Mills Road and Route 32. It is a three bay wide, four bay deep, one story high, gabled roof (running north-south) wooden structure built on a fieldstone foundation.

The north elevation holds no apertures, while the east and west elevations are identical, holding three boarded up rectangular first floor windows and a cross paneled, rectangular wooden entrance in the second south bay. Each entrance is covered with a gabled roof hood with scalloped side panels.

On the south, seven wide cement steps lead to a central, rectangular, wood paneled door surmounted by a two light transom and flanked by tall boarded, rectangular windows. Exposed, unweathered boards above the entrance indicate two rows on which a sign once was placed.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The old Guilford School building faces south on the northwest corner at Oakland Mills Road and Rt. 32. It is a three bay wide, four bay deep, one story high gabled roof (running north-south) wooden structure built on a fieldstone foundation.

North and South Elevations

The north elevation holds no apertures. The south elevation has seven wide cement steps which lead to a central rectangular wood paneled door surmounted by a two light transom and flanked by tall boarded rectangular windows. Exposed unweathered boards above the door indicate two rows on which a sign once was placed.

East and West Elevations

These elevations are identical holding three boarded up rectangular windows and a cross paneled rectangular wooden entrance in the second south bay, approached by two open wooden steps on the west and two cement steps on the east. Each entrance is covered with a gabled roof hood with scalloped side panels. The building sits on a gentle slope with pleasant trees. North of the present building is a parking lot and new cement block church used for community meetings as well as church services.
