Description of Property and Eligibility Determination: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map and photo)
 Lift-the-Latch (HO-444) is a one-and-a-half-story cottage that is a contributing element in the Lawyers Hill Historic District listed in 1993. The house was recorded in the Maryland Historical Trust Inventory of Historic Properties in 1977. The current evaluation was undertaken to determine the property's individual eligibility for the National Register of Historic Places as part of a noise barrier analysis.

The current appearance of the dwelling is the same as that recorded in the 1977 MIHP inventory form. The lapped wood exterior cladding, wood-frame windows, entry door, and wood-paneled shutters appear to be original. The cottage retains integrity of location, design, setting, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association.

The house was constructed in 1914 on land formerly part of the "Hursley" estate. The house was designed by Brognard Okie (1875-1945), a Philadelphia architect who was first cousin to Mrs. Clara Hemphill Davis, the original owner. The house descended to daughter Rebecca Davis, then to her nephew. Brognard Okie (1875-1945) was a noted architect and a fellow of the American Institute of Architects (elected in 1932). He resided in New Jersey and maintained an office in Philadelphia where he practiced independently except for a brief time in the firm of Duhring, Okie, and Ziegler. Okie's firm specialized in the design of planned communities in the Philadelphia area in the early 1900s. The majority of his designs were based on medieval prototypes. Okie also specialized in the restoration of historic buildings. Noted examples of his work include the reconstruction of High Street in Philadelphia for the 1925-1926 Sesqui-Centennial Exposition; restoration of the Betsey Ross House; reconstruction of William Penn's Manor House; and, restoration of churches in Paxton and Silver Springs, Pennsylvania (Withey 1970).

Lift-the-Latch is individually significant under Criterion C of the National Register of Historic Places for its architecture. The building embodies the distinctive characteristics of a period revival cottage and represents the work of a master, Brognard Okie. The property boundary is defined by the current parcel. Contributing elements include the circular driveway, the lawn located north of the house, and the mature trees. Non-contributing elements include the one-car, board-and-batten garage and the open-sided wood shed.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Lift-the-Latch was built by Mr. Robert Coates in 1914 for Mr. and Mrs. Marion Davis after a design by Mrs. Davis' first cousin, Brognard Okie, a Philadelphia architect. He had a special flair for colonial architecture and specialized in the renovation of historic buildings. In addition he was a collector of old locks, latches and artifacts. The latch of the front door is one such collector's item.

Mr. Marion Davis founded the Davis-Hemphill Company in Elkridge on Furnace Road in 1906. In 1956 they celebrated their golden anniversary. He and his wife lived in several places before building this house in 1914, among them the tenant house belonging to the Dobbin-Warner House just east of the present property now owned by Rebecca H. Davis, his daughter.

Architecturally it is a charming example of cottage architecture of the early twentieth century, featuring rectangular, double-hung windows with six-over-six lights and low pitched gable roof with gabled and shed roofed dormer windows.
