Criteria: A B C D Considerations: A B C D E F G None

Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

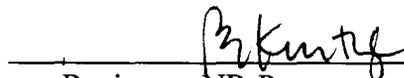

The house at 10919B Scaggsville Road is not eligible due to the fact that it does not meet National Register Criteria A, B, C, or D. Preliminary research has not revealed any association between the dwelling and events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history (Criterion A) or the lives of persons significant in our past (Criterion B). Although the building provides an example of the Craftsman-Bungalow style, it is neither unusual nor distinguished; it does not represent the work of a master or display high artistic merit (Criterion C). There is no evidence that the property is likely to yield information important in history or prehistory (Criterion D). Thus, the property is not National Register-eligible.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Maryland Historical Trust Inventory Form

CAPSULE SUMMARY
10919B Scaggsville Road
(HO-714)

Rectangular in plan and 1-1/2-stories in height, the main dwelling at 10919B Scaggsville Road was erected in the late 1930s or early 1940s. Designed as a Craftsman-style bungalow, the house rests on a solid concrete foundation and is sheltered by a side gable asphalt-shingled roof. The wood frame walls are clad in asbestos shingles, and a large shed roof dormer projects from the front roof plane. A full-width, shed-roof front porch sits on brick piers surmounted by tapered wood columns. Exposed rafter tails support the wide eaves. The house retains its original form and most of its original materials.

The Hines family has owned property associated with 10919 A & B Scaggsville Road since the late 1910s when John L. Hines purchased two tracts of land from which the current 1.673 acres is derived. The Bungalow at 10919B Scaggsville Road was erected for the family between 1930 and 1944. Mentioned in the deed of sale dated July 8, 1944, the dwelling is contemporary with the adjacent 1937 gas station at 10919A Scaggsville Road. This land remains in the hands of the Hines family today.

Rectangular in plan and 1-1/2-stories in height, the main dwelling at 10919B Scaggsville Road was erected in the late 1930s or early 1940s. The house, designed as a Craftsman-style Bungalow, rests on a solid concrete foundation and is sheltered by a side gable asphalt-shingled roof. The wood frame walls are clad in asbestos shingles, and a large shed roof dormer projects from the front roof plane. A full-width, shed-roof front porch sits on brick piers surmounted by tapered wood columns. Exposed rafter tails support the wide eaves. The house retains its original form and most of its original materials.

The dwelling at 10919B Scaggsville Road occupies a portion of a 1.673 acre property on the southwest side of the road adjacent to a gas station historically associated with the dwelling. Scattered mature bushes and trees surround the house, and fenced pasture land extends to the rear. Set approximately forty feet from the road, the house is approached by a gravel drive on the east.

EXTERIOR DESCRIPTION:

The northeast elevation or facade of the house is divided into three bays. The central bay contains a single Craftsman-style, multi-light door, and to either side of this entrance is a 3/1 windows. The shed dormer that marks the upper half story contains three grouped 3/1 windows. All openings at this elevation are surrounded with the square-edged casings.

Two openings pierce the foundation wall of the northwest elevation, both filled with 3-light awning windows. The first story contains three 3/1 windows all trimmed with square-edged moldings. The upper half story of the wall is pierced by a single 3/1 window. Again the sash windows at this elevation are encased with the same square-edged surrounds.

At the rear of the dwelling, a one-story vestibule projects at the first story. Covered in an asphalt-shingled gable roof, the vestibule contains a single-leaf, panel-and-light door. The only other opening at this elevation lies within the rear wall of the dwelling and holds of a pair of 3/1 windows.

Two openings lie within the first story of the southeast elevation of the building, one single-leaf, Craftsman-style, panel-and-light door and one 3/1 window with square-edged trim. The door is sheltered by a gabled hood supported by knee brackets. Another 3/1 sash window marks the upper half story at this elevation.

OUTBUILDINGS:

One outbuilding, a 1930s wood frame garage, stands just southwest of the dwelling. The garage stands on a concrete block foundation and is clad in asphalt shingles. The wide eaves of the front gable roof expose the rafter tails, and the roof is covered with standing-seam sheet metal. The side walls of the garage are pierced by 8-light awning windows.

The Hines family has owned property associated with 10919 A & B Scaggsville Road since the late 1910s when John L. Hines purchased two tracts of land from which the current 1.673 acres is derived. The Bungalow at 10919B Scaggsville Road was erected for the family between 1930 and 1944. Mentioned in the deed of sale dated July 8, 1944, the dwelling is contemporary with the adjacent 1937 gas station at 10919A Scaggsville Road. This land remains in the hands of the Hines family today.

The house displays characteristics typically associated with the Craftsman-style Bungalow including a compact rectangular footprint, a prominent front porch, and tapered dwarf columns on piers that support the porch. The wide eaves and large front dormer are also typical of the style. Popular during the 1920s, 1930s, and 1940s in rural Maryland, the Bungalow offered the country homeowner an economical residence that was easily erected and maintained.
