

HO-792, 6470 Anderson Avenue
Hanover, Howard County
Circa 1880
Private access

CAPSULE SUMMARY

The dwelling at 6470 Anderson Avenue is one of a handful of remaining late 19th century buildings originally constructed as part of the village of Anderson. Stylistically unremarkable and not very well maintained, the two-story, two-bay, frame trigable has an original two room deep cross gabled rear wing. The house rests on a brick foundation facing east on the west side of Anderson Avenue. The old Anderson post office and store (see HO-786) is located on the lot immediately to the south and several modern houses have been built on the lots to the north and across the street, replacing other late 19th century buildings. The building is currently vacant, for sale, and in fair condition and neighbors report that there is a good chance its half-acre lot will attract a developer eager to replace the old house with several new ones.

The house at 6470 Anderson Avenue is significant under criteria C in the area of architecture. The house is notable, not for a great degree of architectural mastery, but instead for its very ordinary-ness. Its location in what was the village of Anderson also contributes to its significance, since this small village, laid out in the 1870's, is quickly being consumed by modern development.

Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The dwelling at 6470 Anderson Avenue is one of a handful of remaining late 19th century buildings originally constructed as part of the village of Anderson. Stylistically unremarkable and not very well maintained, the two-story, two-bay, frame trigable has an original two room deep cross gabled rear wing. Two additions have been made to the structure – both may be enclosed porches. One is located on the south façade of the front section of the house and one is located on the south façade of the rear section of the house (the two do not connect). The house rests on a brick foundation facing east on the west side of Anderson Avenue. The old Anderson post office and store (see HO-786) is located on the lot immediately to the south and several modern houses have been built on the lots to the north and across the street, replacing other late 19th century buildings. The building is currently vacant, for sale, and in fair condition and neighbors report that there is a good chance its half-acre lot will attract a developer eager to replace the old house with several new ones.

The front (east) façade of the house is two bays wide with the door (a 1930's glazed and paneled replacement) in the left bay and a 2/2 window located beside it. Two 6/6 windows are vertically aligned above on the second story. A steeply pitched side gabled roof with an equally steep central cross gable shelters the front single pile of the building. A one-story wrap around porch spans the front of the building and wraps around the south side to the back of the side gabled section. The porch has plain square wood posts, no balustrade, and a wood floor. A majority of the porch also seems to have a rusticated concrete block foundation. The portion of the porch that wraps around the south façade has been enclosed with vertical board siding. There are no windows on the east façade of the enclosure. With the exception of the porch enclosure, the rest of the building is clad in asbestos siding. The side gabled portion of the roof has asphalt shingles while the double pile rear cross gabled wing has large metal shingles. The roof features a wide, but unadorned, eave overhang.

The south side façade shows both of the small additions made to the building and the original double pile cross gabled rear wing. The front single pile side gabled section features one 6/6 window on the second story. The first story is obscured by the porch enclosure which has no windows on the south façade. The rear wing has two 6/6 windows on the second story and one small rectangular new vinyl window between them. The first story features a double 6/6 window and the small addition or enclosed porch on the rear of the wing which has vinyl windows and a glazed and paneled door ca. 1950.

The rear (west) façade has one vinyl replacement window on the second story and one on the first story.

The north side façade has two 6/6 windows on the second story of the rear wing and two replacement vinyl windows on the first story. The north façade of the front side gabled section is blank.

There is a gable front frame garage located immediately to the north of the house. Some of the siding is wood while some is vinyl. A modern garage door is located on the east façade and several 6-light awning windows are located on the other facades. A small frame shed is located behind (to the west) of the garage. It has an asphalt shingle roof and some vinyl siding and is in the process of collapsing.

National Register Maryland Register not evaluated

Prepare a one-paragraph summary statement of significance addressing applicable criteria, followed by a narrative discussion of the history of the resource and its context. (For compliance reports, complete evaluation on a DOE Form - see manual.)

The house at 6470 Anderson Avenue is significant under criteria C in the area of architecture. The house is notable, not for a great degree of architectural mastery, but instead for its very ordinary-ness. Its location in what was the village of Anderson also contributes to its significance, since this small village, laid out in the 1870's, is quickly being consumed by modern development. This modest frame dwelling was probably originally constructed as a tenant house. The house is located on three lots, numbered 18, 19, and 20 on the 1893 plat of the village. The village of Anderson was laid out by Ephraim Anderson in the early 1870's. According to the plat registered in 1893, lots were arranged along six streets – Anderson Avenue, Ryan Avenue and William, Mound, Norris, and Railroad Streets – and alleys ran behind most lots. Noted on the map along with the lot numbers is a spring head, located just to the east of lots 18, 19 and 20 and a church located on the corner of Mound Street and Ryan Avenue. Both of these elements are long gone. Ephraim Anderson laid out the town on a four acre parcel that he purchased from David Sanborn in 1870. By 1871, he was leasing lots in the town to various individuals. These leases, essentially ground rent, were recorded in the Land Records of Howard County, were for a term of 99 years and were perpetually renewable. The individual then improved the lot and could sell the improvements outright and transfer the lease. There is no record that lots 18, 19 and 20 were ever assigned to any one in particular. In 1876, these lots, along with several others in the town, were sold to Frances Childs. Childs and her husband owned quite a bit of land in the immediate area and Col. J.W. Childs is noted on the 1878 map as owning a 35 acre residence just to the northeast of the village of Anderson/Hanover. The house at 6470 Anderson Avenue is not shown on the 1878 Hopkins Map. In 1884, Childs and her husband sold lot 20 to August Deering for $100. The house is actually located on lot 19 which Childs continued to own, along with lot 18, until she defaulted on a mortgage to Susan Grape in 1899. Grape owned the property until her death five years later. It is unclear when the existing house was built and by whom. A fourth quarter of the nineteenth century date seems appropriate based on the form and materials. It seems likely that the house was originally constructed to be a tenant house and it seems fairly certain that neither Anderson nor Childs nor Grape ever inhabited this house. This house should be considered significant to the history of the Hanover area because of its humble station and its location in the quickly disappearing town of Anderson.
