The John Allnutt farmhouse is an 1870's rural dwelling which was remodeled during the mid 1900's. Thus the house as it appears today is more a reflection of twentieth century architectural styling than that of its actual period of construction. Changes made during the 1940's, including a georgian style pedimented entrance, give the house a Classical or Colonial Revival look of the twentieth century.

The house was built in the 1870's by John Allnutt of Montgomery County on approximately 321 acres of land which he purchased in December of 1869 from John and Annie Riggs for $4,817.¹ When John, a farmer, died about 1900, the farm became the possession of his son, Joseph Thomas Allnutt, and his wife, Ella, who has already been living on the farm for 15 years or so. Joseph, also a farmer, died in December of 1934 leaving the property to Ella and their children. In 1940, they put the farm up for sale. The improvements were then described as a frame house of eight rooms, a bank barn and other farm outbuildings, all in poor condition.²

The property was purchased in October of 1940 by Earl and Sarah Sechrest who remodeled the house already in need of repair, thus giving it its present twentieth century, Colonial Revival appearance.³ The Sechrests sold the house in 1963 after which time it passed through a succession of owners until it was purchased in 1976 by the present owners, James and Henrietta Hubbard.⁴

Michael

Mrs. James (Heidi) Hubbard called. They bought the Richard Spencer House - old Allnutt House, #14-35 on Survey, and are interested in researching the background. Told them Mrs. Griffith (an Allnutt?) from across the road told me it was an old Allnutt place. Spencer told me to check with Harrison King, who owns a farm on Goshen School Road, as he knew quite a bit of the history and remodellings, etc. See Washington White and Mills at Laytonsville. Also, check with an old Mr. Allnutt, who lives in Etchison. Also, J. Ernest Hawkins, at Etchison, and Marshall family at Yesteryear Farms Antiques on Hawkins Creamery Road. Told her to search title and get old maps from MCHS. I could come by sometime since I didn't see inside during survey. Best on early evenings or weekends. Phone Number is: 253-5058; Address is: 22522 Laytonsville Road.
