Mary (Genus) Davis House

Poolesville vicinity, Jonesville community

Private

This simply designed frame house of one room down and one room up is one of the oldest houses of a landowning Black family to remain standing in upper western Montgomery. It is still occupied by a descendant of the Genus family, the family that purchased this property in the late 1800's and that helped to found the community of Jonesville.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This one and a half story house stood on the west side of the old Jonesville Road. Today much of the site is surrounded by woods on the east and south sides, and to the north stands the house of Elmer Jones. This house is still occupied by Charlie Turner, one of the descendants of the original owners, and he recalls much of the family history.

The house faces the south. Its exterior is now sheathed with tarpaper siding in a "stonework pattern" and is placed over weatherboard siding. The facade contains two bays, a door centrally located and a window to the west. Overall, the exterior is plain and without significant decorative details.

The interior contains one room down and one up. The interior is now filled with family mementos and furnishings, along with personal possessions of Charlie Turner who lives here alone. A wood cook stove is in the east gable end, piped into a brick stove flue. A straight ladder leads to the upstairs.

It consists of one room and now contains a lot of family things. The rafters are joined with machine cut nails with machine cut heads, as are the frames of the windows. Since these appear to be original construction, the house was built after 1830.

To the front of the house has been added a screened-in porch. The yard in front of the house had several fruit trees; no doubt the families canned the fruit for use in the winter, or stored them in kilns.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

According to family tradition, this tract was purchased by Mary Davis, the grandmother of the present occupant. The property is now owned by her heirs. It was conveyed to these heirs by Lucy E. Turner in Administration case #16110. In the real inventory VMB 183/74, the place was said to contain "one acre more or less with a substandard 2 room dwelling, that did not have a basement, heat, water, or septic system."

No early deed could be found that was related to this site to give the date of purchase by Mary Davis. See attached research notes.

According to Mrs. Elmer Jones and Ora Lyles from Jerusalem, Mary Davis's first husband was Amos Genus, and by that marriage her children were Horace, Sam, and Lucy Genus. She later married Frank Davis. In the 1900 census for Montgomery County, E.D. 52, p. 11B (see research notes), Mary Davis is listed as married to James F. Davis, and with her are living two "grandchildren," Horace Genus, and Lulu Genus born in 1880 and 1874 respectively.

^ mistake or may well have been grandchildren in fact, family tradition probably considered them her own children since she and her husband raised them. Mary Davis was listed as having been born in 1847 and her husband in 1845, so they were born and raised during slavery. Whether they were slaves or free Blacks is not known at this point, but they did escape tenancy and became landowners themselves.

Horace Genus built a two story frame house on property near this house, while his sister Lucy continued to live in this house. Her son, Charlie Turner, lives in the house today, so three generations of the same family have lived here. It is rich in family history. It was probably built in the years soon after freedom, in the 1870's or early 1880's.

Charlie Turner has a rich collection of family pictures important to the history of the Jonesville community. They have been copied. They are in bad condition and need better protection.
