Description:

The William Cashell Tenant House, constructed circa 1870, was previously surveyed by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC) and the Montgomery County Historic Preservation Commission, in 1975, 1976, 1982 and 1994. In addition, the property was surveyed in 1995, as part of the Montgomery County MD.28/198 Connector Project. Since the time of the previous surveys, the property is unaltered.

National Register Evaluation:

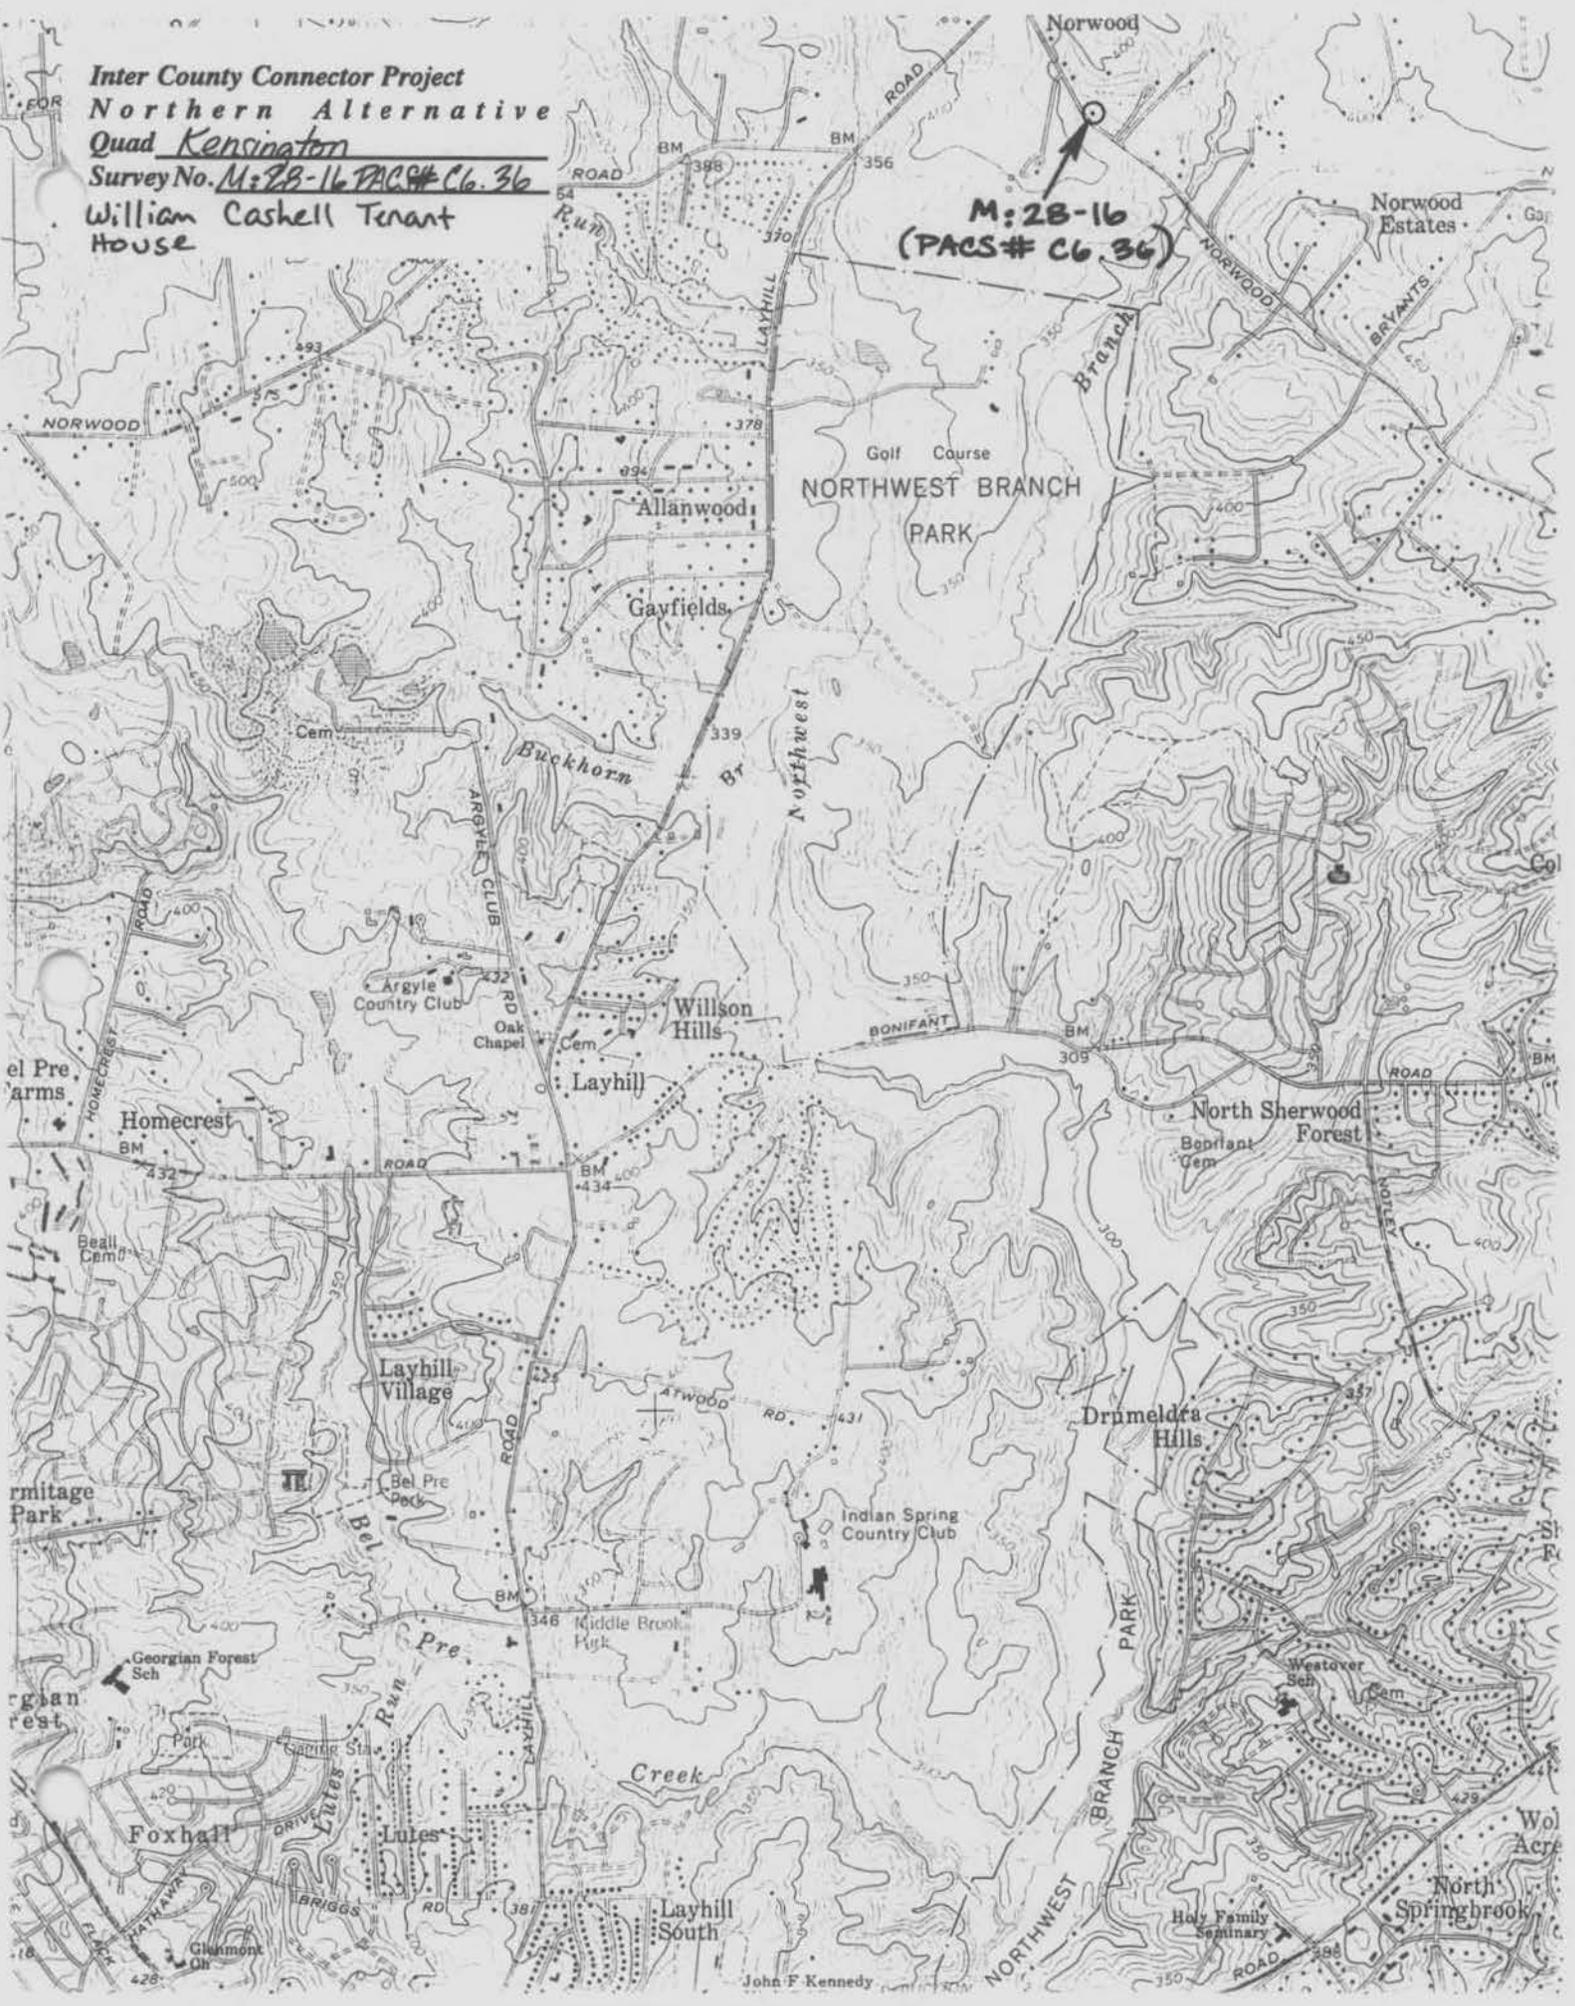

The William Cashell Tenant House, constructed circa 1870, is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. The Maryland Historical Trust determined on December 14, 1995, that the property is not eligible, due to additions and alterations which have severely diminished the integrity of the structure.

Site visit by MHT Staff: X no yes Name Date

Eligibility recommended Eligibility not recommended X

Criteria: A B X C D Considerations: A B C D E F G None

Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

Based on the available information, the W.L. Cashell Tenant House, located at 821 Norwood Road in the Cloverly vicinity, does not meet the National Register Criteria for individual listing. The two story frame tenant house dates to c. 1870 and was built on land that was once part of Llewellyn Fields (M 28-17). Accumulative additions and alterations in the early 20th century and more recently in the conversion of the property to a landscaping business have so diminished the integrity of the property that it could not be eligible for architecture under Criterion C. The building is not known to have been associated with any significant events or persons and lacks sufficient integrity to convey such associations under Criteria A and C. The property is not located within any known historic district.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Project File, Maryland Inventory

The Cashell House is a greatly altered ca. 1870 two-story, gable front and wing frame tenant house built on land that was once part of the Llewellyn Fields farm (which is designated on the Montgomery County Master Plan for Historic Preservation as Site #28-17.) Accumulative additions and alterations in the early twentieth century, the building's subsequent renovation and modernization into office space for a landscaping company between 1970 and 1994, and the alteration of the immediate landscape for commercial purposes (introduction of a parking lot and equipment yard) has radically diminished the property's nineteenth century architectural integrity. For this reason, the resource has minimal local architectural or historical significance.

The Cashell House is a greatly altered ca. 1870 two-story, gable front and wing frame tenant house built on land that was once part of the Llwellyn Fields farm (Master Plan site #28-17) tract bisected by Norwood Road. Accumulative additions and alterations in the early twentieth century, the building's subsequent renovation and modernization into office space for a landscaping company between 1970 and 1994, and the alteration of the immediate landscape for commercial purposes (introduction of a parking lot and equipment yard) has radically diminished the property's nineteenth century architectural integrity.

The building has a basic L-plan with a one and half story addition on the east side of the house. The clapboard house, now sheathed with aluminum siding, has a composition shingle roof and a central exterior brick chimney on the south elevation. The building's most prominent gable front and wing elevation faces west toward Norwood Road. The facade has paired symmetrical six-over-six windows with louvered shutters on the first second levels of the gable and wing. A six-over-six window is also located at the peak of the gable at the attic level. Paired six-over-six windows are also placed in symmetrical ranks on the south side of the house. The gable end of the north facade no longer has windows and has been radically altered with the construction of new entries at the ground and second story level and the addition of a two-story wooden fire escape.

Attached to the building's east side is an early twentieth century ell addition with multilevel eaves. The main one and one half story section of the ell has a shed roof dormer on the south. This addition has largely six-over-six windows placed in roughly symmetrical ranks. The exception is a ribbon-like row of eight-over-eight windows placed on the first level of the ell's south elevation. A later one-story shed roofed section built onto the rear of this ell has one-over-one sash. A new entry with a pedimented portico supported by simple Tuscan columns has been located on the southeast corner of the house.

Summary: The William L. Cashell House, built ca. 1870 and expanded in the early twentieth century and extensively renovated since 1970 for commercial use, lacks sufficient integrity to represent a distinctive type, period or method of nineteenth century design and construction and has minimal local architectural or historical significance.

The Cashell house was once a part of a 252 1/2 acre farm owned by Hazel B. Cashell, one of Montgomery's County most extensive landholders and successful farmers. He had purchased this land from the estate of John Bready in 1869, and it included the brick Georgian mansion and approximately one-half of the Llewellyn Fields estate (Master Plan site #28-17). His son William L. Cashell inherited this house and farm in 1886. The property was sold by Cashell's widow to Dr. Arthur Christie and his wife Maude in 1919. They in turn sold the property to North Washington Realty Company in 1924 and the tenant house tract was sold as a distinct parcel from the Cashell farm.¹

Chain of Title/Owner Information:

The property on which the Cashell tenant house was built had been a part of the John Bready farm. Bready had purchased 526 acres and a brick manor house from the trustees of William Holmes II in 1849. Hazel Cashell purchased the house and approximately one-half of this early plantation called Llwelynn Fields in 1869. His son inherited the property in 1886 and resided there until his death in 1915. His widow Ellen R. Cashell sold the house and farm to Dr. Arthur Christie and his wife Maude in 1919. They sold the house to the North Washington Realty Company in 1924. The tenant house and 4.51 acres passed through numerous owners before Norbert and Ann Burns bought the property in 1942. They lived there until 1967 when the Garden Gate Landscaping Company acquired the site for their business.

The W.L. Cashell tenant house is significant as an example of vernacular architecture typical of that constructed in Montgomery County from the mid-nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. The house was probably built about 1870 by William Lycurgus Cashell as a tenant house for his 252 3/4 acre farm.¹ The property was part of the late John Bready farm called Llewellyn Fields. The farm was purchased after the death of John Bready by William's father, Hazel B. Cashell, who was one of the most successful farmers in Montgomery County during his day. This was one of many farms purchased by Hazel Cashell. He bought the Bready farm in 1869.² His son William resided on the farm, it being willed to him upon Hazel's death in November of 1886.³

W.L. Cashell, a Sandy Spring farmer like his father, lived on the farm, which included the brick manor house and frame tenant house, until his death in May of 1915. Then, as directed by his last will and testament, the entire estate became the property of his wife, Ellen R. Cashell.⁴ In July of 1919, Ellen sold the estate to Maude Christie.⁵ Maude and her husband, Dr. Arthur Christie, lived on the farm until 1924 when, due to a mortgage debt, they sold the estate to North Washington Realty Co.⁶ The property was then split up and the tenant house on 4.51 acres sold separate from the original farm. The house passed through numerous owners. It was the property of Norbert and Ann Burns for about 25 years (from 1942 to 1967).⁷ The house is presently the property of Garden Gate Landscaping, Inc., and is used to house their offices.⁸

¹The date given is based on the fact that the house appears on the county map of 1878 but not on the map of 1865.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Said to be one of the older homes in the area. However, almost all the old houses shown on early maps in this locality are still standing, so it is thought that this was a tenant house or a house built in the 1870's. More information necessary.
