Site number : 4
Approx. building date : c. 1880
Town/town vicinity : Potomac
Access :  Public  Private

Short Description of Site:

The integrity of the main house has been severely compromised by upgrading which has included removing the original center gable; the addition of a Colonial Revival arched hood over the door; moving the chimneys from through the roof to the sides of the house and changing their character from square and corbeled to wide and rectangular; adding wings to each gable end of the facade, with a gambrel roof and modern box bay window as well as French doors with fanlights on the wing at the south gable end; replacing 2/2 windows and adding 6/6, quarter-round windows on either side of the new exterior chimney and French doors in the rear. The remaining significance lies in the outbuildings which retain integrity of material, form and siting (although the two large barns and the tenant house have been sold) and in the main house's hillside location, reached by a long driveway through pastures.

Rating for this site: Minimal (value of site is in outbuildings)

Criteria:

Arch. Significance - that quality which embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type, period, or method of construction, or that represent the work of a master, or that possess high artistic values, or that represent a significant and distinguishable entity whose component may lack individual distinction.

Historical Significance - that quality present in sites associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad patterns of our history; or that are associated with the lives of persons significant in our past; or that have yielded, or may be likely to yield, information important in history.

Arch. Integrity - determined by the number of architectural changes to the site...using the following list as a guide...(and) noting other unusual changes.

Detrimental Changes (depending on the quality of its original character):

- new or relocated chimney
- rebuilt foundation
- new porch
- original windows changed (at a later, but still historical, date)
- modern windows in original frames
- original windows intact but extra ones added
- change in shape or size of window openings
- lack of outbuildings
- aluminum siding (unless original architraves and trim are retained)
- asphalt or asbestos siding (over original siding)
- recent change of location

Critical Changes:

- aluminum siding added; architraves eliminated
- additions engulfing or removing portions of original building

Value Descriptions

Outstanding - distinguished; of particular import. to Md. historic & arch. past.

Considerable - deserving of recognition; contributes to the understanding of history or architectural heritage represented in Maryland

Moderate - commonality...lack of historic signif. or arch. style, except if scarce

Minor - unimportant or inferior; little arch. worth and absence of hist. importance

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

Summary: The integrity of the main house has been severely compromised by upgrading which has included removing the original center gable and replacing it with a Colonial Revival arched hood; moving the chimneys from through the roof to the sides of the house and changing their character from square and corbelled to wide and rectangular; adding wings to each gable end of the facade (the wing on the south has a gambrel roof and modern box bay window as well as French doors with fanlights); replacing 2/2 windows and adding 6/6 windows on the main block and quarter-round windows on either side of the new exterior chimneys; and adding French doors in the rear of the main block. The remaining significance lies in the outbuildings which retain integrity of material, form and siting (although the two large barns and the tenant house have been sold) and in the main house's hillside location reached by a long driveway through pastures.<sup>1</sup>

Description: The farmhouse is situated at the top of a gentle hill facing west. The drive extends past the house on the north, between the house and two large barns to a tenant house and garage, then curves south between the house and a woodshed. Just beyond the driveway on the east is a wash shed with a large overhang in front, facing east.<sup>2</sup>

A branch from the main drive curves south into the front yard of the house and forms a circle around some large trees. The Connell house now has a three-bay, two-story ell-shaped main block with a one-story gabled wing to the north and a one-and-one-half story gambrel-roofed wing with gabled dormers on the south. A two-story addition has also been made in the angle of the ell on the northeast. There are now four chimneys: two exterior fireplace chimneys on the gable ends of the original building, and one on each end of the new wings. Second story windows are now generally 6/6. The facade has an 8/8 window on the first floor to the right of the front door, and a tripartite double hung window to the left, with two narrow (4/4) windows flanking the central 6/6 window. Windows on the original house have louvred blinds. A shed-roofed box-bay on the east of the southern addition has a large window with many small fixed lights, and there is a bay window on the east side of the northern addition. There is also a double window with a fanlight on the rear of the original ell. French doors flank the chimneys on both north and south additions; on the south, they are surmounted by fanlights. A glass-paned door gives access from the addition in the ell to a rear patio with a balustrade. The front door now has a Colonial Revival hood. The original Victorian center gable dormer has been removed, and shed dormers have been placed on the gambrel-roofed addition. The house has weatherboard siding and a slate roof.

Outbuildings: Immediately east of the house in the rear, and facing east to catch the morning sun, is a small German-sided wash house with a deeply overhanging gable sheltering the door. There are two small windows in either side. This building conforms to that pictured in Eric Sloane's book as a Virginia Wash House, c. 1840.<sup>3</sup> The building is not adjacent to the driveway.

Nearby, to the north, is a small gabled storage shed with a door in one gable end and a large window on the opposite end, small windows under the eaves and a shed extension to the south with a window in it. This building is on the driveway.

Still further north, on the driveway, is a gabled small barn or garage with double doors secured by a bar dropped into wooden brackets.

Northeast of this garage is a one-and-one-half-story, side-gabled, three-bay tenant house. It has a full front porch with a shed roof supported by square wooden posts. The house has 6/6 windows, a standing seam metal roof, and stuccoed walls. It has a cinder block stove chimney on the south end.

Down a fairly steep hill to the north about 150 yards is one of two large barns, this one with a gambrel roof. This barn is five-bay by three-bay, with a central Dutch door in the narrow end, and two hayloft doors, one above the other, over the door. There is another door with a small hood in the center of the long side of the barn.

The other barn is about 200 yards west and has a gabled, asphalt shingled roof and a centered side entrance with a board and batten hayloft door above. This barn has nine bays on the eave side in the main block and one in a shed roofed addition to the south. It also has three louvred windows in the gable ends, one in the peak, and two on the sides below.

All outbuildings are frame.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Lucy Connell Farm is significant because a portion of the main house dates from the 1880s and there are several noteworthy outbuildings on the property.

1. Historic Period Theme(s): Agriculture
2. Geographic Organization: Piedmont (Montgomery County)
3. Development Period: Industrial/Urban Dominance 1870-1930 A.D.
4. Resource Type(s): Grain producing/livestock/dairy farms

The site is located on part of two tracts known as "Resurvey on Newton" and "Barren Hill" which William G. Connell acquired in 1870 in an equity sale, for a total of 205.25 acres; the property cost him $3,180.<sup>1</sup> The style of the house and old maps indicate that it was probably built ca. 1880s by the Connell family who owned the property at the time.<sup>2</sup>

The Plummers owned the property for almost 70 years, until 1978, when, after the death of George Plummer, it was sold for development.<sup>6</sup> In 1980, the property (now part of a development known as "Potomac View Estates") was conveyed to Peter and Janet Hitchen.<sup>7</sup> In 1983, the Hitchens sold it to the present owner, William Oldaker.<sup>8</sup>

The house was partially remodeled by the Plummers after they acquired it in 1934 (Potomac Almanac photo, 1977, attached). It appears that the public was allowed to use the property for recreational purposes in the years when it was owned by George Plummer, a successful businessman:

"The beautiful rolling hills of his 295 acres are dear to the hearts of many Potomac neighbors, as well as to millions of weekend drivers from the city. For 45 years the Plummers' farm has been enjoyed by fox hunters, sledders, skiers, fishermen, swimmers, picnickers and artists."<sup>9</sup>

In the years that they owned the property, the Plummers reclaimed what had been neglected farmland, raising wheat and barley and cattle.

"After years of breeding...they ended up with the top herd in Maryland, 60 cows and two bulls. Buyers traveled far to get the Plummer cattle."<sup>10</sup>

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The style of the house and the old maps indicate that it was probably built ca. 1880's. It was on land owned by the Connell family during this period, and they probably built it. (See sale of lands to William Connell by John Vinson, Trustee, in May, 1870.) His wife, Lucy A.M. Connell, is shown on the map of 1894 as having a (tenant?) house here. She sold the property to William Hill on April 7, 1899, in Deed T.D.-8/116. This included parts of "The Resurvey on Newton" and "Barren Hill". These lands of the (late) Lavinia Hill were sold to the Plummers in 1934 (Deed 568/82.)

George Plummer's Death Marks End of Era

by Margo McConihe

George Plummer died this spring in his home at the corner of Piney Meetinghouse and River Rds. A wonderful chapter in Potomac's history was closed.

The beautiful rolling hills of his 295 acres are dear to the hearts of many Potomac neighbors, as well as to millions of weekend drivers from the city. For 45 years the Plummers' farm has been enjoyed by fox hunters, sledders, skiers, fishermen, swimmers, picnickers and artists.

In 1932, with his handsome bride Frances, George Plummer bought the two farms, totalling 295 acres, on both sides of Piney Meetinghouse Rd., for $8,300. He would tell you with a twinkle, "I had to sell two good horses to pay for it."

After moving into the farmhouse, the Plummers started work on reclaiming the neglected farmland. They grubbed out bushes and overgrowth in the corner field and planted barley. Gradually, field by field, the fences went up, the scrub pines and broomsage were replaced by crops, and finally the land was fit for the planting of bluegrass. The summer turf today is as thick and deep as any in Kentucky.

The Plummers with the help of their employee Leighton Hyler began cautiously in the cattle business with six cows and a bull. After years of breeding and culling, they ended up with the top herd in Maryland, 60 cows and 2 bulls. Buyers traveled far to get the Plummer cattle.

The story of George Plummer's life is a synopsis of the "American Dream." As a youngster, he lived in Upper Marlboro where he learned to ride and farm. When his widowed mother started a boardinghouse in Washington, D.C., to make ends meet, 15-year-old George quit school and set up a newspaper stand.

Every morning Hal Rust (of H.L. Rust (Co.) walked to work and stopped to buy his daily paper from George. Mr. Rust knew the Plummer family and enjoyed morning chats with his paperboy. One day, in 1909, he offered young George a job at $25 a month. George Plummer retired 60 years later as president and chairman of the board of H.L. Rust.

While he worked, George put himself through law school, attending nights. He received his degree in 1914 and went on to get his masters degree the following year.

The Plummer acreage turned into gold. Real estate brokers plagued him with tempting offers, but he was not easy to tempt and had a paternal love for each blade of grass.

There are no Plummer children, so the Plummer estate was left to four of his favorite charities.

And neighbors will be happy to know that Leighton Hyler, who has worked with the Plummers for 25 years, will continue to stay in his farmhouse on the Plummer property.

The Plummers bought this farmhouse in 1932. Note the typical triangular dormer roof over the attic.

The Plummer house today. What a difference a slate roof, larger window on first floor, decorative doorway and planting makes.
