DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This is an old frame farmhouse, that has been extensively remodeled during the 20th Century. It now has a Colonial Revival "estate" appearance to it. A cement-stone veneer covers the outside walls, and there is a two-story, pedimented, porte-cochere on the main (west) facade. Mrs. Saul thinks she may have an old photo of the house that pictures it before remodeling. There are several old farm buildings on the property, including a very fine, frame bank barn. The siding is rough board-and-batten, and there are two tiers of large, louvered window/vents on each side. These are framed by molded architraves. There is a small, peaked gable over the sliding doors, near the NW corner of the building. There are a pair of louvered cupola vents, centered on the ridge of the roof. A newer silo is attached to the south side of the building.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The Culver farmhouse, though drastically altered, is significant as an example of rural vernacular architecture typical of that constructed in Montgomery County from the mid-nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries. The house was probably built for Catherine Whelan sometime between 1879 and 1894.¹ Catherine's house was built on land that she received as the spinster daughter and only child of Nicholas and Ann Whelan. Ann had purchased the land (153 1/4 acres) in March of 1831 through the division of the real estate of the late John Connelly for $1,527.81.³ (The map of 1865 shows a house on the site belonging to Kitty Ann Whelan). After Catherine's death, the house became the property of the heirs of her cousin, Thomas Connelly (to whom she had willed the property), Susan Beall and Mary Jane Welsh.⁴ Susan died a widow in 1895 leaving Clarence, her son, as her only heir at law.

Mary Jane Welsh and Clarence Beall sold the farm (225.31 acres) in November of 1908 to Don M. Carr.⁵ Carr sold it in July of 1914 to Edward and Anna Kahlert after which time the house passed through a succession of owners.⁶ The owner of the house in 1928, Clifford Allen, defaulted on the mortgage and the house was sold by a court appointed trustee. It was then advertised as 225.31 acres on the Norwood Pike between Glenmont and Layhill. The improvements consisted of a frame dwelling of 12 or 14 rooms with "modern improvements," three barns, two tenant houses, garage, chicken house and other outbuildings.⁷ The property was purchased by Francis J. Buchanan in September of 1929.⁸ Following Francis' death, the property was sold to Helen McGarvey Saul, of McGarvey Real Estate and McGarvey Enterprises (owner of the Daily Double Bingo Parlor in Laurel, Md.), in September of 1946. Helen died in 1975 and the property was willed to her nephew, Raymond McGarvey, the personal representative of her estate.¹⁰

Due to remodeling which Mrs. Saul had done, the house has lost much of its architectural integrity. These alterations included putting the cement-stone veneer on the house along with the two story portico supported by large columns, and the enlargement of the windows on the facade. However, an interesting frame barn, more elaborate than most found in the county and in good condition, is located near the house.
