

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY
HISTORIC SITES SUMMARY SHEET

P.G. County Survey # 65-6 Date c. 1796
Building Name Adelphi Mill and Miller's Cottage
Location Riggs Road (#212), Adelphi, Maryland
Open to Public yes no restricted

Adelphi Mill, probably the oldest and largest mill in the Washington area, stands on the north bank of the Northwest Branch of the Anacostia River. Constructed of field stone, this two story structure has its entrance in the north gable end. On the opposite side of the present highway #212 stands the miller's cottage; also of stone, it is built into the side of the hill so that its basement is exposed on the stream side. A porch is built across this principal south facade.

The mill and cottage were built by Issachar and Mahlon Schofield about 1796, when they had several parcels of land resurveyed and renamed Adelphi. The most prominent owner of the mill was George Washington Riggs, founder of the Riggs and Company banking house, forerunner of the present Riggs National Bank. The mill was owned and operated by Riggs and his family from 1865 to 1920, and was known during this time as the Riggs Mill. Later owners, the McCormick-Goodhart family, gave the land and mill in 1951 to the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which has since restored it.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Adelphi Mill, a two-story gable roofed structure, stands on the north bank of the Northwest Branch of the Anacostia River. Constructed of field stone, its gable ends are frame above the roofline. At the three-bay north gable end is a central doorway with flanking windows; at the northeast corner is an interior brick chimney.

On the opposite side of the present highway (#212) stands the miller's cottage. This one-and-one-half story stone structure is built into the side of the hill so that its basement is exposed on the stream side. A brick chimney stands at the east end. The three-bay south facade has a porch across it, with central door. This cottage is stone to the ridge line, with boxed cornice.

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The c. 37 acre tract on which Adelphi Mill stands consisted of parts of Gilead and Cramphin's Lott, resurveyed in 1796 by the brothers Issachar and Mahlon Scholfield and renamed Adelphi (Greek meaning "brothers"). It was at this time that the Scholfields built the mill and miller's cottage; both stone buildings appear on the 1798 Tax Assessment. Although they sold half interest in the mill in 1799, the brothers Scholfield regained the mill through the Chancery Court and operated it until 1813.

Adelphi Mill, which is probably the oldest and largest in the Washington area, changed hands several times in the early 19th century, but in 1865 was purchased by George Washington Riggs, founder of the banking house of Riggs and Company in Washington D.C. Riggs invested heavily in real estate in the Washington area, and his business prospered. After his death in 1881, the Mill property passed to his son T.L. Riggs, and in 1897 to his other son Elisha Francis Riggs, who by then had reorganized his father's bank into the present Riggs National Bank.

The Mill remained in the Riggs family, and was known as Riggs Mill, until 1920. The last private owners were the McCormick-Goodhart family, whose mansion still stands about 1/2 mile west of the Mill, and who conveyed the mill property and surrounding park land to MNCPPC in 1951.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The mill is a two-story, building laid up with field-stone. The north gable end is three bays with a central doorway and flanking double hung sash windows; the openings are spanned by wooden lintels. The gable ends are frame. At the north end is an interior chimney.

The stone miller's house is a story and a half, stone building built into the side of the hill so it has an exposed basement on the stream side. It is stone, with a brick chimney on the east end. Across the main (south) facade is a porch, supported on posts, with a shed roof. The facade is three bays with a central doorway. The windows are 6/6 double hung sash. The cornice is boxed; window surrounds are plain boards.
