

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY
HISTORIC SITE SUMMARY SHEET

Survey #: P.G. 68-13-5 Building Date: 1914

Building Name: Miozza Shoe Repair Building

Location: 3813-15 34th Street, Mt. Rainier

Private/Commercial/Occupied/Good/Accessible

Description

3813-3815 34th Street is the middle building in a grouping of three attached shed-roof commercial buildings stepping up the slope of 34th street. It is a two-story, two-bay red brick building with a horizontal parapet and an east (rear) sloping shed roof. The parapet is surmounted by a simple molded wood or metal cornice with end brackets. The first story of the main facade is divided into two storefronts, each with a large plate glass display window resting on a rectangular stone base and a single wood and glass entry door at right. Above each storefront is a recessed transom, the glass panes obscured by brown paint. Separating the facade's first and second stories above the transoms is a facade-wide molded metal cornice. Excepting the modern store display window bases, the obscured transoms and the alteration of the second story window openings, all of the buildings decorative details appear to be original and in good condition.

Significance:

The two-story brick commercial building at 3813-3815 34th Street is significant as an example of early 20th century mixed-use architecture. Although the fenestration has been altered and the shopfronts modernized, the scale, plan and use of the building retain their historic character. It is the center unit of three attached mixed-use buildings that climb up the east side of 34th Street north of Rhode Island Avenue. Each building has added architectural significance as part of this grouping. Constructed by 1914, Lot 21 was apparently conveyed several times prior to being improved. Garnette A. Dungan and her husband James, obtained Lot 21 in January of 1913. Early suburban directories indicate that James Dungan was the local barber. The Dungan's retained ownership until 1917. In 1918 it was sold to William B. Spire who operated a pharmacy there until the mid 1920's when he relocated across the street to the Cameo Theatre Building, of which he was part owner. In 1936 the building was acquired by Umberto Miozza who ran a shoe repair shop and resided in the building through 1973.

3813-3815 34th Street is the middle building in a grouping of three attached shed-roof commercial buildings stepping up the slope of 34th street. It is a two-story, two-bay red brick building with a horizontal parapet and an east (rear) sloping shed roof (see Slide #44). The parapet is surmounted by a simple molded wood or metal cornice with end brackets. The first story of the main (west) facade is divided into two storefronts, each with a large plate glass display window resting on a rectangular stone base. Each storefront has a single wood and glass entry door at right. Above each storefront is a recessed transom, the glass panes obscured by brown paint. Separating the facade's first and second stories above the transoms is a facade-wide molded metal cornice.

The building's second story is sheathed with red brick and the two bays are defined by large window openings with shaped brick lintels. Each window opening has been made smaller with infilling of white painted wooden clapboard. Centered in each opening are modern narrow, 2/2 double-hung sash windows.

Excepting the modern store display window bases, the obscured transoms and the alteration of the second story window openings, all of the buildings decorative details appear to be original and in good condition.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The two-story brick commercial building at 3813-3815 34th Street (Block 1, Lot 21, Rhode Island Avenue Addition to Mt. Rainier) is significant as an example of early 20th century mixed-use architecture. Although the building's fenestration has been somewhat altered at the second story and the shopfronts have been modernized, the scale, plan and use of the building retain their historic character. 3813-3815 is the center unit of three attached mixed-use buildings of similar use, scale, date and facade treatment that climb up the east side of 34th Street north of Rhode Island Avenue. Each building has added architectural significance as part of this grouping of these early 20th century commercial buildings.

Assessment records indicate that the building was constructed by 1914, when an improvement valued at $1,500 is first recorded.¹ Lot 21 was apparently conveyed several times prior to being improved, beginning with its sale in 1908 from James C. and Blanche R. Rogers to Albert Dowling.² Garnette A. Dungan and her husband James, obtained Lot 21 in January of 1913. The southern two feet of adjacent Lot 22 was obtained by the Dungans in February of 1914 (see Chain of Title). As the building occupies portions of the consolidated parcel it must have been erected in 1914 by the Dungans. Early suburban directories indicate that James Dungan was the local barber. The Dungan's retained ownership until 1917 (see Chain of Title) when they sold the property to Turner L. Funkhouser, a local contractor and builder. In 1918 Funkhouser sold to William B. Spire who operated a pharmacy there until the mid 1920's when he relocated across the street to the Cameo Theatre Building, of which he was part owner.³ (See also Cameo Theatre Building 3822 34th Street). After a series of ownerships the building was acquired by Umberto Miozza who ran a shoe repair business and resided in the building through 1973.
