

PRINCE GEORGE'S COUNTY
HISTORIC SITE SUMMARY SHEET

Survey #: P.G.# 72-9-25 Building Date: 1911

Building Name: Fairmount Heights (Grace) Methodist Church

Location: 716 59th Avenue, Fairmount Heights, Md.
Private/Religious/Occupied/Good/Inaccessible

Description:

This is a large stucco-covered church building, crossgabled with corner entry tower. The six bays of the main block are lighted by gothic-arch windows with tracery, and the principal east gable front is lighted by a tall gothic-arch window flanked by two smaller ones, all filled with stained glass. Entrance is into the east facade of the entry tower, through plain wooden double doors with a single-pane transom. Above the entrance in the tower is a large complex window in the shape of a cross; the tower has a shallow pyramidal roof. The building is covered with yellowish textured stucco; set into the north corner of the east facade is a cornerstone which reads:

Fairmount Heights
M. E. Church
1909-1911.

Significance:

Fairmount Heights (Grace) Methodist Church was originally established in 1909 and the first services were held in Charity Hall. For a short time after this, services were held in Pastor Joshua Barnes' home at the location of the present World War II monument. In 1909, after Barnes' death, the trustees of the church acquired two unimproved lots on Fairmount Avenue, and began to raise money for the construction of a church. The church was completed in 1911. This original church was a simple frame meetinghouse style structure, with three gothic-arch windows in the principal gable front and a small belfry at the ridge. In 1950, under the pastorate of Rev. Edward S. Williams, the church was enlarged, the entry tower was constructed, and the entire structure was covered with stucco. The resulting handsome structure is a noticeable landmark in the town of Fairmount Heights.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

Grace Methodist Church is a large and handsome building which is a noticeable landmark in the community. It was begun in 1911 on one of the lots in the Fairmount Heights subdivision.

The Town of Fairmount Heights is located just outside the easternmost point of the District of Columbia in Prince George's County, Maryland; it is composed of a group of early twentieth-century subdivisions that form one of the earliest planned communities for blacks in the Washington, D. C., area. The community began with the Fairmount Heights subdivision in 1900, followed by five adjoining subdivisions, the last being Sylvan Vista platted in 1923. The Town was incorporated in 1935, and grew steadily through the years before World War II.

The land which was to become Fairmount Heights consisted, during the late nineteenth century, principally of parts of the small farms of John H. Wilson, John and Caroline Silence, Samuel Hoover, Mosby Brown and John Wiessner, all clustered around the east corner of the District of Columbia. In the early years of the twentieth century, these farms were bought up and subdivided by land speculators, who then began to sell individual lots to black families, most of whom worked in the District of Columbia.

The first section of Fairmount Heights was subdivided in 1900 by Robinson White and Allen Clark (both white men) out of parts of several small farms which they had purchased from the Wilson, Godfrey, Belt and Lee families. Robinson White was a lawyer and developer who resided in the District of Columbia; Allen C. Clark was a lawyer and manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Company of Washington, D. C. White and Clark had approximately fifty acres surveyed by County Surveyor Edward L. Latimer, and laid out in lots and streets radiating from the northeast boundary of the District of Columbia. The deep, narrow lots were generally 25 by 125 feet; two of the streets were named for these first two developers. Sale of lots began almost immediately, and within a few years, dwellings were constructed and a community began to form.

From the beginning, blacks were encouraged to buy lots and settle in the new community. White and Clark sold the lots at relatively low prices, making home ownership finally attainable for black families. Most of the earliest purchasers of lots worked for government agencies; many built their own houses, or relied on friends and family to help with construction. Many families were quick to seize the opportunity to move out of the city, determined to progress, by hard work and amid healthful surroundings, toward a better life.

The earliest dwellings were of frame construction, modest in size and form, and many of these have not survived. Within a few years, however, several interesting and substantial houses were constructed for individuals who would make significant contributions to the development of Fairmount Heights. Also within the early years, congregations were established and church buildings were constructed.

Fairmount Heights (Grace) Methodist Church was originally established in 1909 and the first services were held in Charity Hall. For a short time after this, services were held in Pastor Joshua Barnes' home at the location of the present World War II monument. In 1909, after Barnes' death, the trustees of the church acquired two unimproved lots on Fairmount Avenue, and began to raise money for the construction of a church. The church was completed in 1911. This original church was a simple frame meetinghouse style structure, with three gothic-arch windows in the principal gable front and a small belfry at the ridge. In 1950, under the pastorate of Rev. Edward S. Williams, the church was enlarged, the entry tower was constructed, and the entire structure was covered with stucco. The resulting handsome structure is a noticeable landmark in the town of Fairmount Heights.
