Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

The Wilburn House #1 is located at 6811 Central Avenue, just outside Seat Pleasant, in Prince George's County, MD. The single-family dwelling is one of a group of three dwellings lining the north side of Central Avenue and built as part of the mid-20th-century growth of the Town of Seat Pleasant. The dwelling is not eligible for individual listing on the National Register of Historic Places, nor is it eligible as part of an historic district.

The Wilburn House #1 is a modest, American four-square-type house built ca. 1936. It is a two-story, two-bay building constructed of oversized bricks, and covered with a hipped roof with a hipped dormer on the front slope of the roof. The house is characterized by its form, and by its craftsman-like detailing, including, most notably, a wide, encompassing roofline; decorative brickwork forming a watertable; windows grouped singly and in pairs and featuring multi-paned upper sash over single-pane lower sash; and a front porch with brick piers and hipped roof.

The Wilburn House was built by the brother of Howard Wilburn who erected an almost identical house at 7400 Central Avenue in 1936. The house is a good example of the dwelling form and features an uncommon use of oversized bricks; however, the American four-square-type house is a common dwelling form from the period and is well-represented in this area of Prince George's County. The dwelling therefore does not qualify for listing on the National Register under Criterion C. The property is not known to have any associations with persons or events significant to our past and does not, therefore, qualify for listing under Criteria A or B. The group of three dwellings found on this side of Central Avenue does not constitute a significant concentration of historic buildings and is not eligible for listing as an historic district.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Project Review and Compliance

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The James Wilburn House at 6811 Central Avenue is a 1930s American Foursquare standing on the south side of the six-lane Central Avenue.

The house is single family dwelling on an urban lot with ornamental landscaping and some mature trees to the west and to the rear (south). The house is an American Foursquare built on a raised foundation. It is two stories in height with an asphalt shingled hipped roof with wide overhangs, a brick chimney, and a hip roofed dormer with two four-pane side-by-side windows and weatherboard sheathing. The house is sided with oversized bricks and there is a decorative water table of standard sized bricks. Projecting window sills under all the six over one windows are header bricks. The front (north) elevation has an entrance with its original wood paneled door and a triple window to the west on the ground floor and two paired windows above. A one story porch spans the full front elevation. It has a raised foundation, concrete steps sided by a solid brick rail, a wood deck, wood porch rail and balusters and square brick posts on brick bases supporting a plain frieze and overhanging hipped roof. The east elevation has a central ground level door with a six-pane window flanked by two small windows, a window lighting the interior staircase, and two windows on the second floor. The west elevation has two windows per floor. On the rear of the house is a one-story original hipped-roof section that has a below-grade garage and a paired window on the west, and on the rear is a triple window on the west end and a screened in porch wrapping around the south and east corners. Two windows are on the second story of the rear of the main block. The interior of the house appears relatively unaltered and retains its original woodwork such as hardwood floors, door and window surrounds and staircase in the entry hall.

The house appears unaltered and is in good condition.
