Description of Property and Eligibility Determination (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map and photo)

Located at 10150 Old Indian Head Road, this wood frame house is one story high and three bays wide. Vernacular in style, it features aluminum or vinyl siding, a front gable roof, a centered entry with a 1-leaf wood door, and 1/1 windows. A small stoop with a wood rail provides access to the front entrance.

Prince George's County continued to be dominated by its agricultural heritage during the first half of the 20th century. Its population between 1910 and 1930 rose from 36,000 to almost 60,000 people, but its population growth was primarily limited to the settlements of the new towns and villages brought about by the Baltimore and Potomac rail lines. After its construction began in 1922, Crain Highway benefited both Charles and Prince George's County in opening up the area around the new artery to increased residential and commercial development. The development along Crain Highway was not as intense in Prince George's County as it was in Charles County. The farmers closer to the urban markets of Washington began to diversify their crops and began to produce more products for the urban populations. Grains and potatoes were in demand in the cities and the access to the rail lines within Prince George's County assured the farmers' crops safe and easy delivery to the urban centers.
