DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Price Railroad Station is located on the east side of the railroad line in Price and on the west side of Massey Avenue, approximately 150 yards north of Maryland Route 405. The station has been converted into a private residence and has been enlarged and renovated.

The station is of frame construction, one story high and rectangular in plan, with a pitched gable roof set parallel to the railroad track.

The front facade faces northwest to the track. A one story lean-to addition now covers the majority of this facade, leaving one large 1/1 window opening in the northeast bay. On the southwest gable wall, a large opening in the center on the first floor has been adapted for a modern window, while a second opening in the upper gable has been boarded up. A second lean-to addition covers the entire southeast facade as well. On the northeast gable wall there are two 2/2 windows on the first story and a blocked smaller opening in the upper gable. The most distinctive features of the building are the vertical board-and-batten siding and the chamfered stick-style brackets that support the roof overhang.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The railroad station at Price is one of three surviving depot buildings on the Kent and Queen Anne's Railroad line in Queen Anne's County. A fourth depot was moved from Barclay to a residential neighborhood in Sudlersville and adapted as a dwelling.

The Kent and Queen Anne's Railroad was constructed in the late 1860's and early 1870's. The line reached Price (at that time known as Price's Station) by 1871. This depot was probably constructed in the 1870's or 1880's, and bears much in comparison with the small freight depot in Sudlersville. The additions and renovations necessary to convert this building to a dwelling have significantly altered the architectural and historical character of the building, but the overall form, the characteristic oversailing roof and the board-and-batten siding clearly identify the original function and general appearance of the depot.
