Criteria: A B C D Considerations: A B C D E F G None

Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

The Juliana Smith House (S-430) is located on the north side of MD 363 near the village of St. Stephen in Somerset County. The property includes a late 19th-century farmhouse and its associated outbuildings. Based upon the MHT form, the property does not have sufficient integrity to qualify for listing on the National Register of Historic Places.

The Juliana Smith House was originally constructed ca. 1885 as a two-story, one-room deep house. After World War II, a two-story rear ell and shed additions were constructed, giving the dwelling its present configuration. In either its original or altered form, the dwelling lacks the architectural distinction necessary for it to qualify for Criterion A. No persons or events significant in our past are known to be associated with the property and therefore make it ineligible for listing under Criteria A or B. No archeological sites have been previously recorded in the area around the property.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Review and Compliance Files

Juliana Smith House
Venton
Somerset County, Maryland

Description
Continuation Sheet 7.1

The Juliana Smith House is a small, two-story, seldom occupied dwelling located on the north side of MD 363 in an area known today as Venton, but which historically was referred to as Habnab (a.k.a. Habinab). MD 363 connects Deale Island with Princess Anne, the county seat of Somerset County. The small section between Venton Road and Oriole Road, within which the Smith House is located, was constructed in the second quarter of the twentieth century.

There are currently only three buildings on the property - the white frame dwelling, believed to have been built by Juliana Smith around 1885, a small frame shed which was constructed on the property about eight years ago, and a small frame outhouse. The two-part, ell-shaped dwelling assumed its present configuration after World War II when the family constructed the rear, two-story wing. The original structure was a modest frame two and one-half story rectangular dwelling, which was oriented to the northeast and Venton Road. It was constructed on brick corner plinths, with the crawl space concealed by a pressed metal skirt. It has an asphalt shingle roof, and the entire structure is sheathed with asbestos shingles.

The principal, or northeast facade, has regularly aligned two-over-two lights, with the entrance offset to the north and sandwiched between the windows in the first and second bays. A simple brick chimney is located at the peak of the gable roof which parallels this principal facade. It is not centered, but rather is offset slightly to the north. There is no porch on the principal facade, and it is unlikely that the entrance is used regularly, as the primary ingress is the door located in the southeast facade of the ell, closest to MD 363, from which vehicular access is maintained.

The two end walls of this original, small, rectangular structure (the northwest and southeast elevations) are characterized by a regular fenestration of three two-over-two lights vertically aligned; however, the window at the gable level is slightly smaller than its lower counterparts.

The building has a rectangular ground plan as the two angles where the ca. 1950 wing meets the original structure have been infilled with porches. The shed-roofed one-story porch on the northwest facade has been enclosed, whereas the one on the opposite side (the southeast) is open, and shelters the entrance. A chimney is located at the peak of the gable roof of the wing, which is oriented from the southwest to the northeast. The simple brick chimney is inside the rear wall. The fenestration of the wing is uniformly six-over-six lights. The southwest end wall has two windows located at the second level, whereas there is no corresponding one on the first level in the southernmost bay. The two windows in the northwest facade of the enclosed porch are a small sash and a two-light hopper window, in accordance with other physical evidence that this enclosed porch was built in two sections.

The current owner reports that considerable alteration of the interior has occurred. The single most important alteration to the original part was the removal of the stair, which was originally located along an end wall. A new staircase was built in the middle of the ground floor, dividing it into two sections.

Statement of Significance
Continuation Sheet 8.1

The Juliana Smith House is the sole remaining original late nineteenth century structure on the small parcel located in rural Somerset County, west of Princess Anne. The property passed to Juliana's daughter, Mary, who raised a family there with her husband Augustus, who she married in 1908. Although the property remains in the possession of her descendants, it is only intermittently occupied and is not in very good condition.

The late nineteenth century structure, unremarkable in itself, and typical of the simple frame dwellings of the time, was extensively altered on the interior, probably about the same time as a large two-story wing was constructed on its rear, or southwest facade, shortly after World War II. According to a family descendent, the acreage of the small property was utilized solely for the cultivation of victuals consumed by the family, and the adult members of the family usually had outside employment.
