Emanuel Waters House
Upper Hill
Private

c. 1900

The Emanuel Waters house is a two-story, two-bay side hall/parlor frame dwelling that dates around 1900. Now standing empty and in a deteriorated state, the house still conveys a turn of the century appearance with two-over-two sash windows and steeply pitched gable roof marked by an off-center brick stove chimney finished with a corbelled cap. The interior is finished in a plain fashion plaster walls and shallow four-panel doors framed by board surrounds.

Chain of title research for this house and lot document former ownership by Emanuel J. Waters, who conveyed the property to his son, Rayfield, in 1916. The house and lot remained in Waters family hands until 1955 when it was acquired by Alexander Maddox.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

Standing on the south side of Jim Moore Road as the paved road makes a right-angle turn is a two-story, two-bay frame dwelling historically known as the Emanuel Waters house. The two-story, two-bay, side hall/parlor frame dwelling faces north with the gable roof oriented on an east/west axis. The house has been abandoned for some years and has deteriorated.

Estimated to date around 1900, the two-story, side hall/parlor frame house is supported on brick pier foundation, and original plain weatherboards are covered with asphalt shingles. The steeply pitched roof is covered with asphalt shingles as well.

The north (main) elevation is a two-bay facade with a side entrance and flanking two-over-two sash window. The front door is missing. Small sized two-over-two sash windows light the first and second floors. Finishing the base of the roof is a boxed cornice, and rising through the roof is an off-center brick stove chimney finished with a corbelled cap.

The east and west gable ends are largely alike with single two-over-two sash windows on each floor and a pointed arch window pierces the upper gable. The eave is extended and the soffits are enclosed.

The rear (south) wall is a two-bay elevation as well with rear hall entrance flanked by a two-over-two sash window. Two-over-two sash windows light the second floor. There is no kitchen wing.

The interior is modestly finished with plastered walls and plain trim. Shallow profile four-panel doors open into each room. The mantel in the parlor has been removed.
