Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

Contributing Resource Count: 2

The buildings are located at the western end of Chew Avenue on a triangle-shaped parcel of land. The parcel lies between Chew Avenue and Boundary Lane and is bordered by Back Creek to the west and the abandoned Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway corridor to the east. The wood frame, one-and-one-half-story barn has a front gabled central bay and shed roofed additions on the north and south elevations. The east elevation of the central bay of the barn has an offset boarded door on the first floor and a hay door on the second story. The east elevation of the northern addition has a garage door opening, while the southern addition has double batten doors. The north elevation has four, six pane awning windows on the first floor. The rear, west elevation of the barn is obscured by plastic planting buckets; however, several elements were identified. There is a one-story open shed roofed addition along the northern addition and the central block. A second story opening and a first story door are boarded over on the west elevation of the central block. The south addition is mostly enclosed in chicken wire; however, the eastern end is enclosed with vertical siding. The central and northern bays are covered in horizontal tongue and groove boards, while a portion of the south addition is clad in vertical board and batten siding. The entire roof is clad with asphalt shingles.

A small one-story shed is located at the northeast corner of the barn. It has a central entrance flanked by six-pane awning windows on the north elevation. The building rests on concrete block piers, is sided in horizontal lap boards, and is roofed in corrugated metal.

Several greenhouse are located south of the barn. The ages of these buildings is undetermined.

There are several other noncontributing resources on the property. A house converted into office space is also located at the northern edge of the property. Several additions have been made to it to accommodate office needs. A work building northeast of the barn will be destroyed by the proposed MD33 bypass if it is constructed. Anticipating the loss of this building, Environmental Concern, Inc. is constructing a new, larger work building north of the barn. A corrugated metal shed is located east of the barn.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

Under the theme of architecture, the construction date of the barn and shed place them in the later part of the Industrial/Urban Dominance Period (1870-1930). The buildings are a common examples of outbuildings constructed throughout the region in the early twentieth century. Although the current owners continue to use them as storage facilities, several alterations have been made to the structures, and finer examples of their type are found in the area. Therefore, the buildings are recommended not eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places under Criterion C.
