DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Bunker Hill Farm possesses an interesting dwelling which was greatly remodeled in the twentieth century. It now is composed of a two story part with portico to which is added a lower two story wing and finally a new one and one-half story wing.

Originally, it consisted of a two bay, two and one-half story portion with chimney on its north gable. The second or middle section had the entrance hall with room on the south. It was reputedly one and one-half stories tall. These two portions are within the present two story portion; the portico being added onto the former one and one-half story section. To the east of this was a one and one-half story wing which is now the low two story part. It had two rooms on the first floor prior to the 20th century remodeling. It resembled the present Hallie Seward house in Dorchester County.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Bunker Hill is an interesting early nineteenth century house, formerly a telescopic dwelling and now a twentieth century telescopic dwelling with aspirations to grandeur. There is similarities between this house and adjoining Anchorage.

The farm was formerly called Bullen or Buller and between 1852-80, was owned by Thomas J. Chaplain. Thomas was the son of William Chaplain who built Reed's Creek up the neck. The Chaplains apparently were prosperous planters or farmers in Ferry Neck.

The farm was purchased by Robert J. Dawson in 1880 and was sold in 1938 by his heirs to John Councilman. Subsequently it was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bregel who remodeled a portion of the house. The present owners have also remodeled since their purchase in 1959. Dr. H. Chandlee Forman has designed a room end and other features for the house.
