Description

This is a two story Queen Anne frame house with double front gables, hips and dormers covered with asphalt shingles. It is a two bay structure with one over one windows. The front has been extensively altered with an enclosed front porch and fixed pane window units. The exterior has been faced with brick and aluminum siding and it has a stone foundation. It appears on the 1908 Sanborn map, and reflects Hancock's construction boom of the early 20th century.
