Addendum to Maryland Historical Trust Maryland Inventory of Historic Properties Form

Inventory No. WA-I-065

Name of Property: Antietam Hall
Location: 525 Indian Lane, Hagerstown, MD

This addendum is to update information on Antietam Hall, which was listed in the National Register in 1979. As of January 2012, Antietam Hall is located within an Area of Potential Effect for the Yale Drive Extension – Phase I project. Currently Yale Drive runs northeasterly from Mt Aetna Road to Medical Campus Drive. The proposed extension continues Yale Drive in a northeasterly direction to the west side of the Hagerstown Community College campus. The proposed route of the extension passes through lands historically associated with Antietam Hall, and the seven-acre Antietam Hall National Register nominated area lies about 1500 feet north of the proposed route.

In 2012, Antietam Hall appears much as it did when it was nominated to the National Register in the 1970s. Some changes have taken place: The early 20th century across-the-front porch has been removed from the main house, and the secondary house which was in very deteriorated condition in 1974 when photographed for the MIHP, has been rehabilitated and is currently used as a residence. A new brick two story brick addition was attached to the east end wall of the secondary house. The addition was constructed to be reminiscent of a mid-19th century farmhouse and is easily distinguishable from the original secondary dwelling, yet compatible with regional construction.

The secondary house which utilizes Flemish bond brickwork at the front elevation and has front and rear watertables appears to be contemporary with the main house.

Antietam Hall continues to maintain historic and visual integrity and continues to retain the qualities of distinctive design and workmanship as well as associations with the past that make it worthy of listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Antietam Hall is located at 525 Indian Lane, Hagerstown, Washington County, Maryland about 1/2 mile south of Maryland Route 64. It is situated on an area of level ground and faces northeast.

The structure is a two-story, six-bay brick dwelling, painted yellow with black and white trim.

The walls are set on low limestone foundations. The bricks at the front or northeast elevation and those of the northwest end wall are set in Flemish bond. At the rear of the house, English garden wall bonding is displayed with three courses of stretchers between rows of header bricks. The projecting portion of the rear elevation displays common bonding. Decorative work associated with the exterior walls includes flat brick arches over the windows. A quarter round brick watertable extends along the entire front elevation.

Windows and doors are spaced evenly in the facade and appear to be grouped in pairs. All windows of the front elevation contain nine-over-six pane double-hung sashes which are held within wide wooden window frames with pegged joining. The frames are trimmed with quarter round molding. Some of the windows in the other elevations contain six-over-six or two-over-two pane sashes within narrow frames. Windows of the front wall are flanked with louvered shutters.

The main entrance is located in the second bay from the north end of the facade wall. The entrance way is flanked by fluted pilasters projecting from the wooden trim. The top of the woodwork is concealed by the porch ceiling. The door jambs are finished with quadrangular panels which match the double doors. A transom with triangular panes is present over the door. Balancing the main entrance is a door located in the second bay from the east end of the front elevation. This entrance is without decorative trim and appears to have had a transom which has been enclosed. Other entrances are located in the rear elevation.

A one-story, hipped roof entrance porch extends along the entire front elevation. It is supported by square posts with chamfered edges. Pilasters matching the main door trim are located at the ends of the front wall. A two-story porch extends along most of the rear wall. Part of this porch has been enclosed with brick.

The roof is covered with slate and terminates with a barge board set directly against the end walls. Eaves boxing at the front elevation is trimmed with a course of molding. Large brick chimneys with several courses of corbelling at their tops are located inside each gable end. An interior flue is located at the ridge between the second and third bays from the south end. A fourth chimney, somewhat smaller than the others, rises from inside the southeast gable end several feet below the ridge.

The main entrance opens into a spacious stair hall with the staircase set into a recess in the southeast wall of the hallway. Two rooms are located northwest of the hall, while to the southeast is one large room with a sizable fireplace. Adjoining this room is a kitchen with a large service fireplace behind which is another room, apparently an addition.

Rooms at the second story are divided by a partial hall running perpendicular to the end walls. Several of the second story rooms display original decorative stenciling in red and black depicting a pineapple motif.

Interior doors have six raised panels with plain quarter round trim. Several nails extracted from the attic floor were hand wrought. The first floor joists consist of heavy squared planks or logs set snugly against each other. Over these is a layer of mortar several inches thick. The flooring is placed above the mortar.

The house is in excellent condition and stands on a tract containing 41.66 acres.

Near the house is a one-and-a-half story, four-bay brick secondary dwelling. Its bricks are laid in flemish bond at the front elevation with a quarter round molded brick watertable extending the length of the front wall. Other elevations display common bonding. Two identical doors are present in the front elevation. The openings have narrow framing which does not show pegged joining. A large barn and other outbuildings are also present.

SPECIFIC DATES

BUILDER/ARCHITECT

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The area of significance of Antietam Hall is its architecture. The structure is also important for the original decorative stenciling which is present in several rooms on the second story.

Although no exact construction date has been established for this house, it has several features characteristic of 18th century dwellings in Washington County. The presence of a watertable and windows with wide wooden frames showing pegged joining are indicative of early construction. The use of wrought nails and raised panel doors at the interior as well as the method of construction employed in the first story flooring all suggest an 18th century building date.

The presence of early stenciling is particularly outstanding and certainly rare in Washington County. Few, if any, other examples are in existence in the area.

Early records concerning Antietam Hall are not definitive. It appears, however, that Ignatius Perre, who acquired a 500-acre land patent "Brother's Request" in 1744, sold 100 acres to George Circule (Frederick County Land Records J/1129) in 1765. In 1769 Circule, who apparently renamed the land "George's Lot," sold 100 acres to Martin Rohrer (Frederick County Deed M/182). Martin Rohrer, who eventually acquired more of the land, held the property until his death in 1806. In 1807 500 acres, including parts of "Brother's Request," "Small Hopes" and "The Hurry," was acquired by Rohrer's son-in-law, Christian Newcomer. If the house is an 18th century structure, it was probably built during the ownership of Martin Rohrer. According to Scharf's History of Western Maryland, written in 1882, Martin Rohrer settled on "what is now known as the Bryan farm, lying on the Antietam Creek and near the Cavetown turnpike. . . ." The Bryan family owned Antietam Hall from 1847 to 1904. Martin Rohrer is buried in a family cemetery located near the Jacob Rohrer house at the Trovinger Mill.

Addendum to Maryland Historical Trust Maryland Inventory of Historic Properties Form

Inventory No. WA-I-065

Name of Property: Antietam Hall
Location: 525 Indian Lane, Hagerstown, MD

This addendum is to update information on Antietam Hall, which was listed in the National Register in 1979. As of January 2012, Antietam Hall is located within an Area of Potential Effect for the Yale Drive Extension – Phase I project. Currently Yale Drive runs northeasterly from Mt Aetna Road to Medical Campus Drive. The proposed extension continues Yale Drive in a northeasterly direction to the west side of the Hagerstown Community College campus. The proposed route of the extension passes through lands historically associated with Antietam Hall, and the seven-acre Antietam Hall National Register nominated area lies about 1500 feet north of the proposed route.

In 2012, Antietam Hall appears much as it did when it was nominated to the National Register in the 1970s. Some changes have taken place: The early 20th century across-the-front porch has been removed from the main house, and the secondary house which was in very deteriorated condition in 1974 when photographed for the MIHP, has been rehabilitated and is currently used as a residence. A new brick two story brick addition was attached to the east end wall of the secondary house. The addition was constructed to be reminiscent of a mid-19th century farmhouse and is easily distinguishable from the original secondary dwelling, yet compatible with regional construction.

The secondary house which utilizes Flemish bond brickwork at the front elevation and has front and rear watertables appears to be contemporary with the main house.

Antietam Hall continues to maintain historic and visual integrity and continues to retain the qualities of distinctive design and workmanship as well as associations with the past that make it worthy of listing in the National Register of Historic Places.
