DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is located just south of Jefferson Boulevard (Md. Route 64) on the west bank of the Antietam Creek at Bridgeport in Washington County, Md. It is constructed into a slope and faces southeast or toward the creek.

The structure is a one-and-a-half story, four-bay brick dwelling, painted light green with white trim. Foundations of roughly coursed local limestone are almost a full story in height toward the front elevation. At the front wall, a veneer of brick over the stone foundations gives the facade a uniform appearance. Bricks are laid in common bond at all elevations.

Openings appear to be spaced evenly in the front elevation. Windows have narrow framing under wide wooden lintels and contain six-over-six light double-hung sashes. Entrances are present in the two central bays at the first and second story levels of the front elevation. They are similar in appearance to the windows and include narrow transoms.

A double porch included under the main roof span extends along the front elevation. It is supported by turned posts.

The roof is covered with sheet metal and terminates with a barge board set directly against the end walls. Plain boxing finishes the eaves. Brick chimneys rise from inside each gable end.

The house is in fair to good condition and stands on a lot containing 0.85 acre.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The area of significance of this house is its architecture. It is an example of a mid 19th century brick dwelling of a type often encountered in Wasington County. Houses with double porches included under the main roof span are a significant group in the County. The double porch at the front elevation may be found on houses of log, stone or brick and could, according to some historians, reflect early British building traditions.
