DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is located on the west side of Beck Road, a short distance north of Old Forge Road between Chewsville and Leitersburg in Washington County, Maryland. It faces south.

The building appears to be a two part house some or all of which is of log construction. The entire building, five bays in length, is sheathed with asphalt shingles. The eastern two bays are set lower than the rest of the house, allowing for a full two stories in height. The western three bays are one and a half stories high with a projecting gable in the south slope of the roof.

All windows have late 19th century style architraves with zig-zag gingerbread trim. Most have two over two pane sashes while some windows in the east section retain six over six pane sashes. Set in the projecting gable is a narrow pointed window with matching trim.

Doors are located in the second and fourth bays from the west end of the house. They are trimmed similarly to the windows. The three western bays of the front elevation are sheltered by a one story hipped roofed porch supported by square posts with scroll cut brackets.

The roof of the house is sheathed with modern asphalt shingles. Boxing under which runs a simple course of molding finishes the eaves. A prominent feature of this house is the large exterior stone chimney which rises against the east end wall. The stone portion of the chimney extends to the peak of the roof where it is capped with several courses of brick.

The house appears to be in excellent condition and stands on a tract containing 8.13 acres.
