Late 19th Century

Ziegler's Mill is locally important as a grist mill in the late nineteenth century and later became a sort of community center for the surrounding area. At various periods the mill was also the post office and a bus stop.

The mill has lost much of its architectural character through alterations. The two story brick central portion has several additions but a suggestion of its original function remains in the irregular fenestration.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Ziegler's Mill is a two story brick gable roofed building with additions on the north, south, and west elevations. It is a late nineteenth century mill converted to residential use and is located behind a furniture store on the southeast side of MD. 60 (Leitersburg Pike) near the intersection of Longmeadow Road northeast of Hagerstown.

The original section of the mill is the two story center portion with whitewashed brick walls and 2/2 arched windows on the second floor. The first floor has one story additions on the north and east and a garage adjoining the basement level on the south. A concrete block exterior chimney stack breaks through the cornice on the west elevation.

The mill has been greatly altered during its conversion to a residence. No machinery remains in the building. The construction of the furniture store led to paving of the immediate ground area around the building. The stone foundation is exposed at the southwest corner, but is below grade elsewhere.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Ziegler's Mill is locally important as a grist mill in the late nineteenth century and later became a sort of community center for the surrounding area, sometimes known as Startown. At various periods the mill was also the post office and a bus stop.

Lake, Griffing, and Stevenson's 1877 map of Washington County shows the mill as owned by D. Ziegler, possibly a descendant of George S. Ziegler (1826-1857), who was described in Williams' History of Washington County as "a miller in Leitersburg District."

The mill has lost much of its architectural character through alterations; however, the landscape southeast of the building toward Marsh Run retains its rural aspect.
