MASON-DIXON LINE: MILESTONE NO. 102(105)

1767 (reset 1902)

State Line, Pennsylvania/Maryland

Public/private

Milestone No. 102(105) is an original milestone of 1767, in fair condition, unaltered though repaired and reset in its original site in 1902 at the time of the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary. It marks Mason and Dixon's 102nd horizontal mile west of the northeast corner of Maryland, the beginning of their 230.228-mile West Line, longest of the survey lines run and marked during their 1763-68 commission to define the boundary between the English provinces of Maryland and Pennsylvania. As with all original West Line monuments, this milestone is an embellished oolitic limestone post, (no longer) with a low pyramidal top, quarried and carved in England, said to have been typically about 12 inches square by about 4 feet or more long, and cut to stand about 3 feet high with the base left rough-cut for setting into the ground. The distinguishing decorative features are the vertical fluting with horizontally-fluted margins on all four sides and the Roman capital letters P on the north side facing Pennsylvania and M on the south side facing Maryland, each V-sunk in the center of a plain shallow circle panel near the top. Broken off below ground level by the time of the Resurvey, this monument was repaired with iron clamps and bands and reset; and now continues to stand firmly but only about 1 foot high. All surfaces/^{corners and edges} have been badly chipped and cut, presumably by farm machinery. The letters are clear, though the M is chipped; all surfaces are so weathered only the letters and fluting on the east and west sides remain. On the national and state levels, No. 102(105) is significant primarily as one of 135 original monuments in the thematic group series of some 248 markers still defining the West Line, the boundary later known as the Mason-Dixon Line, famous for its historical impact and innovative survey methods. Locally, as one of 48 original monuments marking the present Washington/Franklin-Fulton county boundary (10 crownstones; 38 milestones), it is also significant as one of a diminishing number of objects and structures with a visually identifiable relationship to the colonial and Civil War heritage of these counties.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Milestone No. 102(105) marks Mason and Dixon's 102nd horizontal mile west of the northeast corner of Maryland, the beginning of their 230.228-mile West Line. It is an original milestone of 1767, stands about 1 foot high, repaired in 1902 but unaltered; and remains at its original site, preliminarily surveyed in 1765, first set two years later, repaired and reset more securely at its original site in 1902 during the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary.

The area here is at the western edge of a broad, comparatively level fertile land, with large contiguous family farms, very sparsely settled. The site is off the southeastern edge of the village of State Line, PA/MD; within Election District 27 of Washington County, MD, and Antrim Township, PA; at a point about 3/4 mile east of US 11 and about 1000 feet south of Oaks Road (T-352) from the junction of the James Petre farm lane. It is unmarked, in the middle of an unfenced cornfield, about 1200 feet due west of the Petre farmhouse. It cannot be seen from any road or farm lane any season, and is in urgent need of protection from farm machinery.

The milestone, as with all original Mason and Dixon West Line monuments, is an embellished oolitic limestone post with a low pyramidal top, quarried and carved in England, and said to have originally measured about 12 inches square by about 4 1/2 feet long, cut to stand about 3 feet high, with the base left rough-cut for setting into the ground. The distinguishing decorative features are the vertical fluting with horizontally-fluted margins on all four sides, and the Roman capital letters P on the north side facing Pennsylvania and M on the south side facing Maryland, each V-sunk in the center of a shallow plain circle panel near the top. At the time of the Resurvey (MGS Vol. 7, 1908, p. 90): "The old monument had been broken off below the surface of the ground and its position was lost. The proper place was redetermined by the survey and the base of the stone was found by digging. After being repaired with iron clamps and bands the monument was reset." It now stands firmly set about 1 foot above ground; measures about 10 1/4 inches on the north and south sides, about 11 inches on the east and west sides; with all surfaces edges and corners presumably badly chipped and cut by farm machinery, all surfaces very weathered, the letters clear (but M chipped), fluting remaining only on the east and west sides, and no planes or fluting remaining on the top, now quite flat.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Milestone No. 102(105) is significant on the national and state levels primarily as one of 135 original Mason and Dixon monuments in the thematic group series of some 248 markers still defining their 230.228-mile West Line, the boundary later known as the Mason-Dixon Line, famous for its historical impact and innovative survey methods. The site was preliminarily surveyed in 1765 and milestone set two years later, where it remains in place, although repaired and reset more securely in 1902 during the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary. Locally, as one of 48 original monuments marking the present Washington/Franklin-Fulton county boundary (10 crownstones; 38 milestones), No. 102(105) is also significant as one of a diminishing number of objects and structures with a visually identifiable relationship to the colonial and Civil War heritage of these counties.
