Description:

This commercial building made of cast stone or rock-faced concrete block is a two story, two bay building with a stepped parapet top. The facade has a commercial storefront with large four pane display windows and a recessed entrance. At the west edge of the facade is another entrance which leads to, apparently residential quarters at the second story. At the second story level front are two semi-hexagonal projecting bays. Probably built around 1915, this building reflects the commercial development of the town in the early 20th century when the automobile brought increased traffic on the old National Pike.

According to the 1877 Atlas, there was a building on this lot at that time. It belonged to G. Gares.
