Description:

This house is a one and a half story, three bay building, probably of frame construction. The walls are covered with aluminum siding and brick veneer. The main character-defining feature is the central cross gable. Windows have two over two or single pane sash. The main entrance is in the center bay of the front elevation. The door is sheltered by a shed roofed porch.

Although modified at the exterior, this building appears to have been a Gothic Revival style cottage, the only one of its type in Funkstown.

According to the 1877 Atlas map, this property belonged to Mrs. Erick at that time.
