Description:

Located on the southeast corner of High and Poplar Streets is this two story, three bay log house covered with asbestos shingle siding. Windows have two over two panes within architraves with pointed tops. The main entrance is in the central bay and is trimmed similarly to the west windows. A hip roofed porch supported by square posts extends across the front. A one story kitchen wing is attached at the rear.

A house is shown at this site on the 1877 Atlas map as owned by W. Troxell.
