Description of Property and Justification: (Please attach map and photo)

14220 Maugansville Road does not appear eligible for listing in the NRHP under Criteria A, B, C, or D. The resource does not appear significant for its method of construction or architecture. The Cape Cod style is a common mid-twentieth century building style found throughout Maryland and 14220 Maugansville Road is a fairly typical example. In addition, 14220 Maugansville Road has been slightly altered from its original appearance, compromising its architectural integrity. As a result of these changes the property's integrity of design, materials, workmanship, and feeling has been compromised. Archival research conducted at local and county libraries and historical societies, and investigations of cultural resource studies at MHT have produced no information indicating the resource to be significant for its association with significant events or persons, or for its ability to yield information important in historic or prehistory.

7. Description

Inventory No. WA-I-698

Condition

excellent deteriorated
 good ruins fair altered

Prepare both a one paragraph summary and a comprehensive description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

14220 Maugansville Road is a brick, one-and-one-half story, three-bay, Cape Cod-style dwelling. The resource faces east and has a side-gabled roof, covered with asphalt shingles. Window openings are rectangular and contain three-over-one vertical wood sash. A large picture window with flanking two-over-one sash is located on the front façade. A single-story brick section is attached to the south façade. This section was probably originally a sun porch that has since been enclosed, as a phantom concrete stairway remains. Aluminum siding is found under the gable of this section. An exterior brick chimney is located on the south façade. The sole outbuilding is a modern detached garage.

Prepare a one-paragraph summary statement of significance addressing applicable criteria, followed by a narrative discussion of the history of the resource and its context. (For compliance projects, complete evaluation on a DOE Form – see manual.)

14220 Maugansville Road appears to have been built in the mid-twentieth century, based upon its building type and stylistic characteristics.

14220 Maugansville Road does not appear eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, C, or D (as specified in 36 CFR 60.4). The resource does not appear significant for its method of construction or architecture (Criterion C). The Cape Cod-style is a common mid-twentieth century building style found throughout Maryland, and 14220 Maugansville Road is a fairly typical example. In addition, 14220 Maugansville Road has been slightly altered from its original appearance, compromising its architectural integrity. As a result of these changes, the property's integrity of design has been compromised. Archival research conducted at local and county libraries and historical societies, and investigations of cultural resource studies at MHT have produced no information indicating the resource to be significant for its associations with significant events or persons, or for its ability to yield information important in prehistory or history (Criteria A, B, and D).
