Approximate date Ca. 1890-1910

This two story, three bay L-shaped frame house is very similar to its neighbor to the north. Its walls are covered with vinyl siding and vinyl shutters trim the windows. Character defining features include the semi-hexagonal projecting bay at the first story front, the across-the-front porch with turned posts and jig sawn brackets and trim, and the standing seam roof. Windows have single pane sash. The front entrance is located in the central bay. Brick chimneys extend from inside the gable ends. The projecting bay, porch and light frame construction suggest a construction date in the 1890-1910 period. Behind the house is a concrete block garage with a flat roof with a parapet top. The house is indicative of Maugansville's conservative architecture and its development which occurred mostly in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. It was the birthplace of local historian Garnette Martin.
