Approximate date Ca. 1890

This traditional vernacular frame house is located on the northeast corner of Village Mill Drive and Garden View Road in the southwest part of Maugansville. Covered with vinyl siding, the house is a two story, three bay structure with a recessed front porch along the east half of the front or south elevation. The recessed porch, contained under the main roof span at the front elevation was a favorite architectural feature for farm houses of the mid 19th century, particularly in areas with Pennsylvania German cultural influence. Farm houses of this type are quite common in Washington County and the surrounding area. This house is distinctive within Maugansville village. Windows have two over two pane sash and the front entrance is located within the recessed porch. The house retains a standing seam roof. There is a one story extension attached to the north side of the house. The date attribution the house is based on its light frame construction, two over two windows.
