DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is located about 1/2 mile west of Maryland Route 66, about 1/2 mile south of its intersection with U. S. 40, in Washington County, Maryland. It is situated on the east bank of the Beaver Creek and faces south.

The structure is a two-story, four-bay brick dwelling with white trim. A two-bay frame addition at the west end of the house links it with a brick summer kitchen.

The walls are set on low limestone foundations. At the front and rear elevations, a watertable is present extending five courses above the foundation. It is topped with a course of quarter round bricks. The walls of the front and rear elevations show flemish bond brick work. The end walls show common bonding with five courses of stretchers between rows of header bricks. Flat brick arches are present over all windows at the two main levels. At the first story, the arches are one-and-one-half bricks in height; at the second floor level, they are one brick high.

Windows are set in the walls with some effort at symmetry. They are, however, grouped in the front and rear walls with a relatively wide gap between the second and third bays. All of the windows appear to have most of their original framing, consisting of wide members with pegged joining. The frames are finished with a bead at the inside edge and are trimmed with quirked quarter round molding. Two-over-two pane Victorian period sashes are held within the window frames.

The entrances are located in the center bays of the south or front elevation. They are similar in appearance, neither having received particular attention as a main entrance. The entrance openings are framed similarly to the windows with four-light transoms carried above the doors. The doors have six raised panels trimmed with quirked quarter round molding. In the second bay from the east end of the north or rear wall is another entrance which is consistent in design with those at the front elevation.

A Victorian period flat roofed one-story porch extends along the south wall. It is supported by square posts with brackets.

The roof is covered with slate. It extends for several inches beyond the end walls of the house and appears to be a Victorian period replacement. The eaves are finished with boxing under which is a plain cornice board. Brick chimneys with corbels at their tops rise from inside each gable end.

The exterior of the house is in good condition.

Near the house are a number of early outbuildings, including a brick kitchen and wash house, three log buildings, one of which has a fireplace and appears to have been a dwelling, and a large stone barn which has a date stone that could not be read.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The area of significance of this house is its architecture. Constructed of brick with Flemish bonding and water tables used in the front and rear elevations, it shows a considerable amount of attention to Georgian period detail. The use of water tables and Flemish bond brickwork in walls other than the facade is unusual in Washington County. Those few dwellings in the County with water tables appear to have been built during the late 18th or very early 19th centuries. The small windows in this house and their massive pegged frames would also suggest an early building date.

The property is significant for its numerous outbuildings which appear to be of the same period as the house. They are outstanding as examples of early log construction. Few such secondary structures are ill in existence.

The buildings stand on a 246-1/2 acre tract of land called "Meadow's Green" which was surveyed for Jonathan Ingram on June 25, 1875 (Washington County Patent Book k, Folio 225). In 1809, John Ingram sold the property to this son, Joseph. Joseph Ingram in his will, probated April 15, 1834, left Meadow Green to his three sons. The will suggests that Ingram was a man of considerable wealth with sizable holdings in stocks, slaves and real estate. He refers in his will to his "mansion house," allowing for his daughters to reside in half of the structure until their marriage. Some time between 1859 and 1866, the property passed to the Fahrney family in whose possession it remained until 1966.

Williams' History of Washington County, Maryland suggests that the Ingram's were prominent early residents of the County. They came to Maryland from England early in the 17th century and are said to have held two patents made during the reign of King George II.¹
