Justification for decision: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map)

Based on the available information, the house at 18812 Geeting Road, located just to the east of the crossroads community of Porterstown, does not appear to meet any of the National Register Criteria for Evaluation. The two story log and frame house appears to have had numerous alterations over the years, leaving little distinguishable of its early construction. The house is presently covered in asbestos shingles and has an enclosed front porch and a rear and side addition. Log construction was fairly common in Washington County in the early years of settlement, extending well into the 19th century. Better examples of log construction are likely to exist in the immediate area. It does not appear to possess sufficient architectural merit to warrant individual listing under Criterion C. It has no known association with significant events or people, and thus is unlikely to warrant listing under Criteria A or B. The property is outside the Porterstown survey district (WA-II-323).

Other inventoried properties are located nearby and the map indicates that it may be located within a modern residential subdivision. Thus, it is not likely to be located in an area with sufficient concentration of historic properties to constitute historic district.

Documentation on the property/district is presented in: Project File
