 DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This farmstead is located on the south side of Newcomer Road, along Beaver Creek northwest of Boonsboro in Washington County, Maryland. The house is situated on a slope overlooking Beaver Creek. It faces west.

The building is a two story, six bay log and frame structure on fieldstone foundations which become almost a full story in height at the northwest corner. A one story, two bay frame addition extends to the rear or east. The entire surface of the house is sheathed with composition siding. Windows have two over two pane sashes, trimmed with early 20th century style architraves. Two entrances are located side by side in the second and third bays from the south end of the front elevation. The two doors are similar, each with a transom. A small shed roofed entrance porch is present. The roof of the house is sheathed with sheet metal and a brick chimney is located at the south end wall.

In front of the house is a fieldstone fence which extends to the creek and continues on the other side. It supposedly marks the location of an old road and fording place.

Also near the house is a stone barn with frame gables.

The buildings appear to be in good condition and stand on a tract containing 120.66 acres.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This 19th century farmstead includes a log and frame house sheathed with 20th century composition siding and a stone and frame bank barn. It is located along Beaver Creek at a fording place. The exterior surface of the house is characteristic of early 20th century materials and workmanship. Beneath this sheathing, however, could be a much older building.
