DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This house is a dated example of Washington County's early stone construction. The main section of the house is a two story, three bay structure of finely coursed limestone at the front elevation and more roughly finished masonry at the side and rear walls. Above the windows are flat arches of chiseled stones. Window sashes have been replaced but frames appear original being wide ovolo trim. In the south gable is a datestone inscribed with the initials MSB. The year was difficult to read but appeared to be 1804. A one story, two bay stone addition is dated 1833 with the initial W attached to the north end wall. An elaborate iron fence is present in front of the house. A modern concrete block barn is located nearby.

This house is particularly noteworthy as a dated example of the County's early architecture. Although the date was not identified positively, exterior characteristics of the house make the 1804 date plausible.
