BUILDING DATE: mid-late 19th century

232 West Main Street is a north-facing, horizontally massed, symmetrical, four-bay, one-and-a-half-story, frame, freestanding, residential structure on a stone foundation. The building is set directly at the public-right-of-way and is covered with manufactured siding. The standing-seam metal, side-gable roof has one brick chimney, open eaves, and gable returns. The center-bay entrance consists of a craftsman style interior door with a modern storm door. The transom has been filled in. The entrance is protected by a hipped-roof, porch that extends the length of the building. It is supported by boxed posts connected by a slat railing. Fenestration is composed of single, rectangular, double-hung, six-over-six windows. There is a large two-story wing to the rear followed by a one-story addition. The roofline has been altered to enlarge the house.

A building of the same configuration is noted on the 1877 map of the town as being owned by Mrs. Kidwilder. The extant structure appears on the 1922 Sanborn as 113 West Main Street. It is noted as having a long, one-story addition

The building is within the Western Maryland Geographic Organization, the possible Development Period of Agricultural-Industrial Transition, and falls within the Historic Period Theme of Architecture, Landscape Architecture and Community Planning.
