202 Potomac Street is a north-facing, horizontally massed, two-and-a-half-story, four-bay, brick, freestanding, residential structure. The building, which is set directly at the public-right-of-way, rests on a stone foundation and is set in a common bond that has been painted red. It has a side-gable, tin roof with two endwall chimneys. A hipped-roof porch with a railing and turned posts extends across the facade of the house and protects the center-bay entrance. The door is a craftsman style one and is topped by a three-light transom. The fenestration is double-hung, two-over-two sash. The structure has a one-story rear ell with a one-story shed-roof frame addition.

A building of similar configuration is indicated on the 1877 map of the town. The 1910-1940 Sanborn maps show the building as 68 Potomac Street and show it with two one-story frame outbuildings directly behind the house.

The building is within the Western Maryland Geographic Organization, the probable Development Period of Agricultural-Industrial Transition, and falls within the Historic Period Theme of Architecture, Landscape Architecture, and Community Planning.
