35 St. Paul Street is a south-facing, horizontally massed, one-and-a-half-story, four-bay, brick, freestanding, residential structure. The building, which is set directly at the public-right-of-way on a stone foundation, is laid in common bond and has been painted red. The structure has a side-gable, artificial shingle roof with two large chimneys. The door, which is located in a center bay, is typical of those found primarily on Potomac Street--the upper portion is glazed and the lower portion has two wood panels. The building is indicated on the 1877 map of the town. The 1897-1940 Sanborns number the structure 151 St. Paul.

The building is within the Western Maryland Geographic Organization, the probable Development Period of Agricultural-Industrial Transition, and falls within the Historic Period Theme of Architecture, Landscape Architecture, and Community Planning.
