27 St. Paul Street is a south-facing, horizontally massed, two-and-a-half-story, three-bay, frame, freestanding, residential structure. The building, which is set directly at the public-right-of-way, rests on a stone foundation and is covered with manufactured siding. It has a side-gable, tin roof with one chimney. The hipped-roof eastlake porch extends across the facade and protects a one-story bay window and the east-bay entrance. The door is obscured by a storm door, but is topped by a four-light transom. Fenestration includes rectangular, double-hung, six-over-one windows on the first floor and six-over-six windows on the second. There is a one-story rear addition. The property has a summer kitchen.

A building at this site is indicated on the 1877 map of the town. The 1897-1940 Sanborns number the structure as 149 St. Paul.

The building is within the Western Maryland Geographic Organization, the probable Development Period of Agricultural-Industrial Transition, and falls within the Historic Period Theme of Architecture, Landscape Architecture, and Community Planning.
