DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This stone house is a one and a half story, three bay structure built into a slope so that two full stories are exposed at the front elevation. A double porch which is not included under the main roof span extends along the front wall. This area was at one time thoroughly whitewashed. Built of roughly coursed stone native to Pleasant Valley, the house is said to be dated 1838. Since it was photographed in 1975, the building has been thoroughly renovated.
