DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This stone farmhouse is a two story, four bay structure with a modern one story, farmstone addition extending to the rear. The walls are constructed of coursed stones with the most precise masonry used at the front elevation. Above the first story openings are flat arches of chiseled angle-cut stones. Windows and door frames are very wide and recently faced with plain boards. Modern sashes have also been replaced. The owner stated that the house had a layer of 18th century style insulation consisting of massive planks or beams which supported a layer of rock and mortar beneath the actual first floor. The house would appear to date from the ca. 1800 period. Also on the property is a brick cased frame building which resembles an old school house, a frame wagon shed and stone foundations from a bank barn.
