WA-V-223

MASON-DIXON LINE: MILESTONE NO. 110(114)
Fairview, Maryland vicinity
Public/private 1767 (reset 1902;

now broken off)

Milestone No. 110(114), if in place, would mark Mason and Dixon's 110th horizontal mile west of the northeast corner of Maryland, the beginning of their 230.228-mile West Line, later known as the Mason-Dixon Line, famous for its historical impact and innovative survey methods. It is an original crownstone of 1767, quarried and carved in England of oolitic limestone, but now is in two pieces (an unexposed base of some 3 feet/^{presumably} in the middle of a field, ^{at its original site} and the above-ground portion of about 16 inches high temporarily placed in a hedgerow nearby). This top portion is ^{unaltered and} in fairly good condition, although all surfaces are very weathered and the Penn and Calvert shields indistinct. The base, if still in place, would be surrounded by a concrete foundation, as reset in 1902 during the 1900-03 Resurvey of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary. When properly repaired, reset and protected from farm machinery, this crownstone will again be significant, as one of only 24 original crownstones remaining on the West Line and as one of only 10 crownstones on the present Washington/Franklin-Fulton county boundary.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Milestone No. 110 (114), an original crownstone of 1767, is presently in two pieces: the below-ground base (^{presumably} ~~of about 3~~ feet in length, surrounded by a concrete foundation as reset in 1902/^{in its original survey point} ~~during the 1900-03 Resurvey~~ of the Maryland-Pennsylvania boundary) is believed still in place in the middle of a farmed field; the top (above-ground portion) of about 16 inches high is in a hedgerow not far away, upright, but not secured or marking any particular point, believed broken off and moved by the property owner (^{sometime between} 1950 and 1967, ^{judging} ~~from~~ photos on file at the Maryland Historical Society and a letter from Gerald J. Sword to Roland Shank of 9/20/67). This top/^{portion} ~~is~~ unaltered and in fairly good condition.

The area here is rural, sparsely settled, comparatively level farmlands, with a number of woodlots. The site/^(below ground base in foundation, and top) ~~is within~~ Election District 23 of Washington County, MD, and Montgomery Township of Franklin County, PA; about 1 mile northwest of the scattered settlement of Fairview, MD; at a point about 2500 feet north of Fairview Road ^{in the middle of a cultivated field.} and about 1300 feet east of Ditto Road, / The top of the crownstone is a short/^{unknown} ~~distance~~ east, in a/^{narrow,} ~~scraggly,~~ brambly hedgerow separating two back fields of the Seth Schnebley dairy farm called "Crown Stone Farm." It is against the east side of a north-south wire fence, in a bower of brambles, obscure and protected, though could be easily moved, and thus endangered.

The crownstone, as with all original Mason and Dixon West Line monuments, is an embellished oolitic limestone post (what's left of it), quarried and carved in England, and originally measuring about 12 inches square by about 4 feet or more long, cut to stand about 3 feet high with the base left rough-cut for setting into the ground. The distinguishing decorative features are the vertical fluting with horizontally-fluted margins on all four sides, and the stylized shields of the Penn coat of arms on the north side facing Pennsylvania and that of the Calvert's on the south side facing Maryland, carved near the top. This top portion presently measures roughly 16 inches high (the break is ~~uneven~~ ^{jagged}) and about 11½ inches square; the two shields are intact but very badly weathered, as are all the surfaces; some fluting is discernible, but no margins remain; no planes or fluting of the top remain and there is a pit in the apex; and there are chips along all edges and the top corners.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Milestone No. 110(114) is an original crownstone of 1767, now in two pieces: about 3 feet of unexposed base surrounded by a concrete foundation ^{believed} at some non-visible ^{original} site in the middle of the Schnebley field, and about 16 inches of the above-ground portion placed upright in a nearby hedgerow remaining in fairly good condition, unaltered. At the moment, these two portions have debatable significance, neither ^{visibly} accurately marking the West Line, nor reliably protected from theft. Once properly reset and protected from farm machinery, it will assume considerable significance at all levels, for it is one of only 24 original crownstones remaining on the Mason-Dixon Line, and one of only 10 ^{crownstones} still marking the present Washington/Franklin-Fulton county boundary.
