Betsey's Gift
Bivalve vicinity
Private

c. 1850, c. 1860-70

The six-part stepped frame house that stands on land known as "Betsey's Gift" dates from the second and third quarters of the nineteenth century. The oldest portions comprise the story-and-a-half center section and the single story one-room plan kitchen which share a brick chimney stack. The surviving original woodwork suggests that the center section and kitchen wing were erected around 1850. Attached to the west gable end of the center section is a two-story, side hall/parlor section added around 1860-70, and it retains a turned baluster staircase and a plain Greek Revival parlor mantel.

The portion of "Betsey's Gift" where this house is located was held by the Rencher family during the third quarter of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twentieth century. Alpheus Rencher purchased 71 3/4 acres of the tract in February 1875 for $3,000, and he remained at this location until his death. He is designated at this location on the 1877 Lake, Griffing, and Stevenson atlas, and he is listed in the atlas patron list as a farmer owning 88 acres. The property remained in family hands until Arthur M. and Helen H. Rencher sold the old house to Lawrence and Clara Mae Cartwright.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The two-story, six-part, frame house that stands on land known as "Betsey's Gift" has the modern address of 20760 Cove Road, located in the vicinity of Windsor Cove, south of Bivalve, Wicomico County, Maryland. The house faces south the roof oriented on an east/west axis.

Built in stages, the six-part, stepped frame dwelling is supported by a low masonry foundation, and the exterior is clad with vinyl siding. The hip roof that covers the main block and the other gable roofs of the house are sheathed with asphalt shingles. The two-story main block follows a side hall/parlor plan and it dates around 1860-70, whereas the story-and-a-half center section and single story east end kitchen have one-room plans and appear to date around 1850. Attached to the back wall of the center section is a two-story, one-room plan rear wing. Extending from the rear of the kitchen wing is a single story hyphen (garage infill) that joins a former summer kitchen to the modern kitchen. The house has been generally remodeled over the course of the past twenty years.

The south facade of the main block is a three-bay elevation with a side entrance flanked by a pair of modern replacement windows. The four-panel front door is framed by a multi-pane transom and three-light sidelights, and the entrance bay is sheltered by a gable roofed portico. The second floor is lighted by three replacement windows.

The west side of the main block has a centrally positioned replacement brick chimney stack flanked by single-pane sash windows.

Defining the rear wall are replacement windows as well. The eastern first floor bay was formerly a rear doorway to the side hall.

The east wall of the main block is largely covered by the story-and-a-half, one-room plan center section. Sheltered by a shed roof porch on the south side, the front wall is pierced by a large slider door. The south slope of the roof is marked by a single gable roofed dormer. A chimney stack rises against the east gable end within the single-story kitchen. The chimney was built with two flues, one to serve the first floor center section and a second for the kitchen. The shared nature of the chimney stack indicates that the center section and kitchen were built in one period in the manner of many stepped or "telescope" houses.

The interior retains some of its nineteenth century finishes. Surviving in the main block is a c. 1860 turned baluster staircase anchored by a boldly turned newel post. Fixed against the west end wall is a plain Greek Revival mantel with undecorated pilasters rising to a plain frieze which is topped by a thick board shelf. A second quarter of the nineteenth century mantel survives in the center section. A square edge surround frames the firebox. Two plain frieze blocks are fixed atop the surround. The interior of the kitchen has a corner winder staircase with a beaded board-and-batten door.

While the house displays an interesting architectural form common to the nineteenth century, the exterior and interior surfaces have been largely remodeled over the years. As a result, this house is listed in Category C, which signifies that further alterations should be considered carefully.

The portion of "Betsey's Gift" where this house is located was held by the Rencher family during the third quarter of the nineteenth century and the first half of the twentieth century.
