Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

Like many of its neighboring houses, the Cathell house sits on a narrow plot of land, close to the street. The house was built by the owner's father in 1918, as was the large frame garage behind the house. This property lies on the west side of South Main Street near the end of the residential section.

A 2½ story frame dwelling, the Cathell house is gable fronted with cross gables on the north and south sides. A single chimney rises from the roof ridge in the back of the house. Sided with asbestos shingles, the house is 3 bays by 3 bays, with 1/1 windows throughout. A verandah extends across the front and wraps around part of the adjoining sides. Brick piers support the verandah. The piers and the raised foundation contain the same decorative brickwork seen in 414 and 416 S. Main.

On the front or east facade the pedimented gable contains triple arched, 1/1 windows. The entrance in the middle bay is off-center with the third bay consisting of a shallow, 3-sided bay with 3 windows. The north side cross gable over a two-story extension creates a fourth bay containing a door at the end of the north side verandah. This cross gable projection has double windows on each story, those windows in the pedimented gable being arched.

The rear facade contains a hip-roofed cellar entrance like 414 S. Main, along with windows in the raised foundation. Triple windows are repeated in the gable which is not pedimented.

On the south facade a pair of arched windows are placed in the pedimented cross gable. The verandah extends the length of this facade, terminated by a pantry as is the case in 414 S. Main. The only remaining section of porch railing remains on this facade.

The gable-roof frame outbuilding to the rear contains low garage opening with exposed interior rafters and a loft above. Covered with roofing material the small barn-like structure has had many alterations.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

Built soon after its neighboring house, 414 South Main, the Cathell house contains several of the same features: pantry, verandah, cellar entrance, shallow bay window. It presents quite a different appearance, however, with its cross gables, l/l windows and pedimented gable treatment. This is another example of the taste, design and workmanship available in Berlin in the early 20th century.
