NOTABLE FEATURES, HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE AND DESCRIPTION OPEN TO PUBLIC no The Stockton Bank is a one-story, brick building built in 1902 in the style similar to the other small banks in Berlin and Snow Hill. It is two bays wide and two bays deep. It faces south and the entrance is on the west side of the facade. Above the entrance is a semicircular arch and a pediment with the date 1902 on a plaque. The window on the east side of the facade is wide and protected by iron bars as are the other windows. Granite sills and imposts are [?] on the facade. Dividing the building into two parts are three pilaster strips. The cornice consists of small triangular blocks set under the eaves in a white strip. The hip roof is covered with slate and the hip has the word 'Bank' spelled in lighter color slate. The ridge has a tin decoration thereon. Presently the building is vacant but it could make a good
